

RUNAWAY

Written by Jess Ray

© 2015 JESS RAY MUSIC

I can see it in your eyes, that you're gonna run, you're gonna run
I can hear it in the way you speak to me that you're gonna leave
And as you slip away, I will say...
As you pack your things, I will sing...

Even if you run away from me, over the mountains through the valleys
I will not rest but search east and west to bring you back with me
Even if you sail away from across the oceans and the seas,
I will move again like the mighty wind and blow you back to me.
I'm gonna move again like the mighty wind and blow you back to me.

I have seen this all before it is all too familiar.
But you will never see the bottom of my storehouses of love.
So as you use the night, to make your flight,
no choice that you will make or path you take will change my mind.

Even if one day you decide, you will find somewhere else to hide
I will walk your way and call your name and wait for your reply.
Even if you make up in your mind, you don't want be by my side,
I will leave behind 99 oh the you'd be mine.
I'm gonna leave behind 99 oh the you'd be mine.

Even if you stomp and scream and huff, tell me that I'm not good enough
I'll take every swing and every blow, until you know my love.
Even if you beat upon my chest, tell me that you don't understand,
I will love you and teach you to love me again,
I'm gonna love you and teach you to love me again.