We support long-term economic development in North Korea by providing exceptional young and high-potential North Koreans with exceptional opportunities to learn about economic policy, business and finance through innovative programs.
This year, we continued to grow programs we have conducted since 2010. On the operational side, we have improved our ability to execute well on programs, with a 17% selectivity ratio for our overseas programs, and managed to bring the average age for overseas program participants to 31 years old.

We have also continued to push program frontiers with a new program in Singapore housing DPRK interns at a startup incubator. We believe that such an unstructured work experience provides the most realistic introduction to entrepreneurship. More than half of the participants we selected for the program were female.

Next year, we look forward to opening a full-time office in Beijing, and to kickoff a new flagship Women in Business program focusing on young and high-potential female business managers and entrepreneurs.

2013 Plans

Continue

• Financial sector training
• Business management and entrepreneurship training

Kick-off

• Flagship Women in Business program
• Fiscal policy and monetary policy training
• Insurance sector training
2012 Highlights

Consultations

• 6 visits to North Korea to consult on a range of topics including venture capital ecosystems, insurance, fiscal policy and female participation in businesses

Workshops

• Workshop on finance (banking and private equity) in North Korea

• Overseas visit to Singapore for past program participants

Internships

• 5 interns (3 female/2 male) spent 1.5 months at a startup incubator in Singapore, followed by meetings in Beijing
At the mere mention of finance/banking, the [North Korean] interns would respond “We are bankers!”
