

The Deep - Carter

I've fallen into the deep end once again
I've fallen faster and harder than you'll ever understand
I'm calling out time for reason and rhyme
Cus in this place another space opens my mind

Tell me what you hear and what you see
Tell me what you think and how you breathe
Tell me about your fears and all your dreams
Hold me in your arms and on your tv screen

I'm backing into the wall just like a dog
I jumped the fence and my head grew, I walked on through the fog
Now i'm running so fast I cannot hear
I need your eyes, your mind, everything I lost
And both those tears

Tell me what you hear and what you see
Tell me what you think and how you breathe
Tell me about your fears and all your dreams
Hold me in your arms and on your tv screen

In their fears and in their dreams
In their arms and on their tv screens

Time may call you back again
By the riverside to soak it in
To feel your dreams beneath the sun
To tempt you hard to take another run

Plan and choose, tomorrow's here
Sleep and wake for yesteryear
Drive and shout notes from the wall
Build and break the answer call

I've fallen into the deep end once again
I've fallen faster and harder than you'll ever understand
I've fallen into the deep end once again
I've fallen faster and harder than you'll ever understand
