

The Boy With an Unclean Spirit

Scripture: Luke 9:37–43a

Series: The Gospel of Luke

Sunday, June 3, 2018

REDEEMER
FELLOWSHIP

Overview

On a small level, we understand majesty. Whether it's a concert by our favorite artist or attending a sporting event, we can be overcome with excitement, passion, and appreciation for their craft and influence. All of these pale in comparison to the majesty of God. Once seen, we cannot help but love, pursue, and crave to behold God's majesty more and more. Beholding the majesty of God ignites a passion for God.

Corroborating Texts

I Chronicles 29:11–13; Psalm 93:1–5; Jude 24–25; Psalm 96

Discussion Questions

1. What does it mean to have a passion for God? How do you recognize a passion for God in others? Could they see the same in you? If not, what is hindering the view?
2. Where do we see the majesty of God?
3. What is majesty? [royal power and dignity—ultimately in the redemption found only in Jesus Christ]
4. What should the majesty of God do in us? [give confidence, bring about conviction, affect our conduct]
 - a. What do I need to know in order to have confidence?
 - b. What should I feel?
 - c. What do I need to do?
5. How do you “maintain” a passion for God? When our passion is cold, how can we grow in a passion for God?
 - a. Scripture (read and hear proclaimed)
 - b. Prayer
 - c. Corporate Worship
 - d. Ordinances
 - e. Community