COVID-19 Safety at Audubon Summer Camp

Audubon is committed to ensuring that Summer Camp 2021 will be a safe, fun and engaging experience for your child. Per Rhode Island COVID-19 safety guidelines, our staff will wear masks, practice social distancing, limit camp size to small groups, and follow strict and frequent sanitizing procedures. Staff and campers will engage outdoors in nature even more this summer - utilizing large outdoor tents for weather protection when necessary, and minimizing time spent inside the building.

Audubon will continue to stay current with State and Federal safety guidelines and best practices as recommended by The Department of Health, and the RI Association of Camps.

Please refer to the Audubon Summer Camp Parent Handbook for a new section providing guidelines and procedures for COVID-19 safety. We ask that all parents review the information prior to sending your child to camp, and again as your child enters a camp session. Details may be updated as we move through different phases of the pandemic.

We look forward to introducing your child to the great outdoors for a safe and fun-filled summer!

Thank you.
