

COLLABORATION

ARTISTS Tai Snaith and Kate Tucker have collaborated on a new series of works on paper, created through the use of exquisite corpse-inspired rules of engagement. Taking it in turns to begin, one artist created a collage using found images, then passed it on to the second artist to finish the work with watercolour, gouache, acrylic or pencil. The results are a series of vibrant and harmonious images. Until December 22.

Today 11am-5pm, Helen Gory Galerie,
25 St Edmonds Road, Prahran, free,
9525 2808, helengory.com

LAUGHTER

...ative powers of a

EXHIBITION

ON DISPLAY at Photonet Gallery are works by the winners of the gallery's annual photography prize. The open category winner, Darcy Grant, presents a series entitled The Circus Inside (above), revealing black and white stills from that most active of performing arts genres. Natalie Morawski, the winning student, presents Still Sketches. Exhibitions close December 19.

Today 10am-4pm, tomorrow noon-4pm,
Photonet Gallery, 15A Railway Place,
Fairfield, free, 9018 3081,
photonetgallery.com.au

PHOTOGRAPHY

AS WE enter bushfire season, photographer John Gollings' exhibition Aftermath is a study of the massive impact the fires have had on the Kinglake-