ABOUT PEYTON:

Peyton Sefick has been interested in sports his entire life. He just had to find a competitive team. Sefick, who lives in Syracuse, New York, drove two hours from his house when he was twelve to check Power Soccer out. “After playing recreationally for a few years, my father and I started a team in our area and I’ve been heavily involved since,” he says. Sefick, who played for CNY United last season, has had many up and downs playing and hopes to coach Power Soccer one day.

Sefick was on the 2011 World Cup team, however he was not fortunate enough to travel to Paris. Sefick uses “that as fuel anytime I’m on the court.” He is really focus this year and wants to make himself better and help Team USA win a third World Cup. However, Sefick admitted that being on “Team USA is a massive commitment financially, professionally, and takes up a lot of time.”

While in Kissimmee, Sefick hopes to meet people from around the World and, as he says, “continue to advance the sport of power soccer.” He can’t wait for the World Cup as he has seen the game “evolve so much in the past five years.”

Sefick hopes one day that people look at Power Soccer “as the premiere competitive game for individuals who use power mobility.” He has dreamt of Power Soccer having international club tournaments. Sefick says that “would be amazing as well.”
