Women's Transportation Seminar (WTS) is pleased to announce the selection of Ellen Harvey as the artist to develop public art showcasing women's contributions to the transportation industry to be displayed within the MBTA South Station Transportation Hub.

One of 195 applicants, Harvey's unique concept and design carried her through to the final four selection process where she further demonstrated her understanding and creative ability to undertake the South Station commission.

Elated with the selection of Ellen Harvey, WTS – Boston Public Art Co-Chair Lisa Brothers reflected on the highly competitive process and the many impressive proposals received, "On behalf of the selection committee, we congratulate Ellen and thank all of the artists who participated sharing their creativity, professionalism, and evident support of public art projects. We have reached a milestone with Ellen on board. Her vision will direct us as we work collaboratively on final design concept and site selection processes."
