

Rose

Linhaires

Hello!

I'm Rose Linhares, a designer from St. Louis, Missouri. My creative goal is to solve visual problems. I understand that design should look good but more importantly it should be highly functional. I want to find ways to create better designs and experiences for users everywhere. Ultimately, it's about creating unforgettable experiences. My dream job is to work in a creative environment and to make work that inspires others.

Work Experience

SUMMER 2017-PRESENT

Art Director Intern at VML

Currently completing a 10 week Internship program at VML's global headquarters in Kansas City. Working closely with Creative Directors and UX Designers on the Ford account, contributing ideas and creating deliverables.

SUMMER 2016

Web Design Intern at New Balance Athletics

Conceptualized and executed advertising and marketing deliverables to support the company's global digital creative goals. Also collaborated with other interns in a UI/UX project to redesign the site's wishlist functionality and design.

2015 - 2017

Student Designer at Truman State Publications

Designed print and web materials for Truman State University departments and student organizations. Corresponded with clients to meet approaching deadlines and was challenged to work creatively under pressure.

2015 - 2017

Art Director at Detours Magazine

Detours is a student-produced biannual travel magazine. Collaborated with Editor-In-Chief and managed a team of designers to create cohesive issues. Led a redesign and created new brand guidelines for designers and the publicity team.
