Outdoors Empowered Network is a national network of community-led, youth-centered outdoor education groups that are dedicated to increasing access and diversity in the outdoors through gear libraries and outdoor leadership training.
OEN’s member organizations support access to outdoor adventures for tens of thousands of youth each year. Members partner with community-based youth service agencies, schools, and other youth-centered groups to make transformative outdoor experiences happen through the following core programs:

TRAINING
Members provide experiential, skills-based trainings for teachers and youth workers in their regions so they are empowered to take youth outdoors on their own. For every adult trained, 20+ youth get a chance to experience the power of nature and the outdoors. For many young people, this is the first time they’ll see the Milky Way, hear a rushing waterfall, or experience an environment free of the urban cacophony of horns, sirens, and cell phones. Nature-based experiences change lives.

GEAR
Members reduce one of the biggest barriers to getting outside—cost of gear—by curating and providing access to outdoor equipment libraries that cater to schools, youth service organizations, and families. Gear libraries can look different in different communities, using a wide array of partnerships. Read through our member descriptions on the next page to explore the cultural and locational diversity.

WE SEED AND SUPPORT A TIME-TESTED MODEL FOR CONNECTING YOUTH WITH THE OUTDOORS THROUGH THE ADULTS THEY TRUST.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT
Members often provide mini-grants, transportation subsidies, and connections through social media and listservs. Some also provide campgrounds, simplifying the preparations required for teachers and youth mentors as they plan their trips.
A NATIONAL NETWORK

Our member programs are at the heart of the work of Outdoors Empowered Network. These eleven regional organizations actively support youth service organizations and schools with outdoor leadership training and gear libraries. Together, we are working to increase our collective impact on the world, and create equitable access to nature.

OUR MEMBERS

Appalachian Mountain Club
AMC’s “train and support” model sustains over 400 educators per year, who in turn engage tens of thousands of young people across New England and the Greater New York City region.

Bay Area Wilderness Training
A non-profit supporting the greater Bay Area, BAWT provides non-profits, non-formal educators, school districts, and families with gear lending and training programs.

Detroit Outdoors
A collaborative bringing together Detroit Parks and Recreation, YMCA of Metropolitan Detroit, and the Sierra Club to reactivate Detroit’s only campground: Scout Hollow.

Families in Nature
Based in Austin, FIN’s nature-based Guide Development Program trains and supports parents, teachers, and leaders in getting families out into nature.

Fresno Building Healthy Communities
Fresno BHC’s provides equitable outdoor access at the gateway to Yosemite, Sequoia, and Kings Canyon National Parks. Their gear library supports families and partnering programs.

Forest Preserves of Cook County
Based in Chicago and neighboring suburbs, the Forest Preserves of Cook County has 5 campsites throughout the district and the Camping Leadership Immersion Course training.

Get Outdoors Leadville!
GOL!’s programs include workshops and courses to build outdoor leadership skills. The Get Outdoors Leadville! community Gear Library is a resource for the whole community.

Indigenous Cultural Concepts
ICC supports Cultural Educational and Learning for Diné (Navajo Indian) youth in northeastern Arizona. They provide outdoor education, camping, and cultural training.

Midcoast Conservancy
The largest regional conservation organization in Maine, Midcoast provides community programs and gear for families and organizations wanting to get outside.

The Mountaineers
The Mountaineers is a nonprofit outdoor community in the Pacific Northwest. The Mountaineers partners with youth-serving programs and runs a community gear library.

Washington Trails Association
WTA is the voice for hikers in Washington state. Their Outdoor Leadership Training offers access to their gear lending libraries, funding assistance, and community support.
Being part of OEN gives members the opportunity to build networks, share best practices, fundraise for gear, and see the national impact of collective work. Our core “train and support” program model brings together a wide variety of members, all working together to bring equity and access to the outdoors. OEN supports core members wherever possible, including through:

Gear Donations

Our members are responsible for twenty gear libraries throughout the United States, reducing one of the biggest barriers to access for hundreds of thousands of young people. Outdoors Empowered Network supports these gear libraries through fundraising for in-kind and monetary donations, bulk purchases, and programmatic design.

Member Support

From designing new programming to applying for grants, running an outdoor education organization can involve a lot of hard and lonely work. OEN staff works hard to create connections, problem-solve, and support new program design.

Professional Community

From monthly calls, to ad hoc virtual meetups, to our annual Summit, OEN cultivates a professional community for outdoor educators and administrators. Our network model gives members a community to work with as they explore new ideas, develop programming and best practices, and face inevitable challenges.

Thought Leadership

We encourage year-round member engagement on topics connected to our work like diversity, equity, and inclusion in the outdoors, best practices, and risk management, creating opportunities for growth and leadership. We also engage external thought leaders during our annual Summit.
