

How Heartaches Happen

Words and Music by Pamela McNeill

Walking in the moonlight, tonight, by your side
I'm feeling like I've known you ~ almost all my life
And I could see us ending up together and I think that I am falling, falling for you now

But that's how heartaches happen - don't you know?
One day you'll say goodbye but I won't let go
And then I'll be the one who's cryin' over you
'Cause that's how heartaches happen
Be careful how you go

Well, maybe I should turn and leave before I ever get to say "I love you," ~ never let you know
And save us both from wasting too much time on something that might never work and spend my nights alone

That's how heartaches happen - don't you know?
Before you say goodbye maybe I should let go
'Cause I think I could lose myself inside your world
But that's how heartaches happen
Be careful how you go

That's how heartaches happen, don't you know
One day you'll say goodbye
But I won't let you go...oh...

So if you really want this, I guess you should know my heart is on the mend
~ I'm very breakable
And I think I could lose myself inside your world
But that's how heartaches happen
Be careful how you go

Yeah, I think I could lose myself inside your world
But that's how heartaches happen
Be careful how you go
