

Town Full of Tears

(Written by Pamela McNeill)

I go to sleep in a town full of tears, singing sad songs that nobody hears.
I wish I knew what it took to belong.
And how someone could still get it so wrong.

(Chorus)

'Cause oh, sometimes -
it's like nobody knows me.
And oh, sometimes -
it's like nobody cares.
And there's a wall
going up around me,
to keep me from drowning
in a town full of tears.

I walk along the ruins of 3rd street,
past all the bars and the closing time scenes. (Chorus)
Electricity shines on the old water-tower
A rocket-ship, grey, going straight to nowhere.

(Chorus Repeat)

Hey, you, time, what am I supposed to find Hangin' on for my dear life – drunk on a dream
That I never see
'Cause years go by and still the same old tears I cry
I'm so far away from where I, I wanted to be
I wish I could leave

(Chorus)

'Cause oh, sometimes -
it's like nobody knows me.
And oh, sometimes -
it's like nobody cares.
And there's a wall
going up around me,
to keep me from drowning
in a town full of tears.
It's to keep me from drowning,
in a town full of tears.
You know I feel like I'm drowning...in a town full of tears.
