Policy, in any sector, is at the forefront of contemporary social control, and our work seeks to understand its expanded forms. This iteration of Policy People thinks about care and sickness in, outside of and in resistance to dominant regimes of health care.

Our guests:

Taraneh Fazeli is a curator, researcher and educator from NY. Her ongoing project, “Sick Time, Sleepy Time, Crip Time: Against Capitalism’s Temporal Bullying” looks at how care for the body in states of debility and disability might allow us to re-imagine collectivity.

Jenna Bliss is an artist and filmmaker from NY. With recent projects like "Nihilism and Self Care," her artistic practice is focused on health autonomy, drugs, addiction, and the pharmaceutical industry.

We look forward to seeing you there!

Community Guidelines

Protecting people from harm and addressing accountability in NYC spaces

Thu.
June 29
6-9pm

At this month's Town Hall Meeting, we will address protecting people from harm and addressing accountability in NYC spaces, discussing safer space policy as a set of community guidelines to be shared across venues.

Venue owners, promoters and knowledgeable folks on safer space policy and discourse will share information, all are encouraged to attend and share their own experiences.

Bring your books to COMMEND (172 Forsyth St. NYC) to be donated to incarcerated people across the nation.

This month we are accepting gently used paperback books -- especially dictionaries, histories of people of color in the U.S., how-to books, social sciences -- to donate to NYC Books Through Bars, who work to provide books directly to our severely underserved incarcerated population. For more information on
