From the Desk of Andy Jung...

Over the 20 years I spent in youth ministry, I have had the privilege of working with some of the best young people around. I have built strong relationships with many of them. I still stay in touch with many of them, some who are now adults with their own families and others who are in college. Several have even gone on to surrender their lives to full time ministry. I thank God for each student I have had a chance to impact in some small way.

I am excited for First Baptist to meet and embrace one of the recent student leaders I have had a chance to minister with. Brittan Coats, a rising junior at Appalachian State University, will be our summer missionary. During our time at Trinity Baptist in Raleigh, she was a student leader throughout her middle school and high school years in our Student Ministry. She grew in her walk with Jesus and sharpened her gifts through different ministry experiences. Over the last two years of college, she has continued in her faith journey and has made a strong impact on different campus organizations.

During this summer, Brittan will either lead or assist the running of our day camps for children. She has extensive experience in working with children in a camp setting so she will provide strong leadership for us. She is also an elementary education major so this experience will help her in the future. In addition, she will assist with our Vacation Bible School, spend time with our middle school and high school students and participate in worship leadership. She will be busy throughout the summer.

I hope you will pray for Brittan as she makes her transition to Albemarle. She will begin her ministry this Sunday by sharing her story during worship. We will begin a new series titled "A Brighter Future" as we look at how God used ordinary men and women to do extraordinary things in Scripture. See you Sunday! Andy

YOUTH

Before June 2nd 2010 there had only been 20 perfect games pitched in the history of professional baseball. That night in Comerica Park a Detroit Pitcher named Armando Galarraga was one out away from being the 21st pitcher ever to reach this feat when Cleveland short stop Jason Donald hit a ground ball and was promptly thrown out at 1st. There was however a problem, the Umpire of 22 years Jim Joyce missed the call. Although Donald was clearly out by half a step, Joyce called him safe thus ending Galarraga's bid for the perfect game and his shot at baseball history. After watching the replay later Joyce openly admitted his mistake and gave a tearful and open apology. Galarraga quickly and respectfully accepted that apology. In fact from the moment of the call until today he has never questioned or criticized Joyce. I have to be honest I don't know that I would have handled the situation as gracefully as Armando Galarraga did. Often our first instinct is to criticize when we see someone doing something differently than we think it should be done. But is that how we should behave? Paul tells us in Romans 14:13 to "Stop condemning each other. Decide to live in such a way that you will not cause another believer to stumble and fall." In many cases this judgment can create more damage than the initial mistake. If you take anything from Joyce and Galarraga, it is how you should, as a Christian, respond. If you are in error, ask for forgiveness. If you feel you have been wronged, be ready to forgive. Tony Dungy says it best in his book The Uncommon Life. "Stop passing judgment, even if you believe you have the right to do so. It only escalates the situation and makes it more difficult to achieve harmony. And among Christians, less judgment means better relationships and more accomplishments for his Kingdom."

Michael
