Jeremy Fisher

jeremy@hammondandcompany.com

Jeremy is a Building Scientist, Designer and Project Manager with 18 years of experience in the construction industry. He previously worked as Managing Director of Hyphae Design Laboratory, an ecological design firm, was a Research Associate with the Residential Building Systems Group at Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory, and worked as a project manager for ZETA Communities and Canyon Construction. Jeremy also worked with Architecture for Humanity, Kleiwerks International and other non-profit organizations to develop international low-income sustainable housing solutions. Jeremy has presented his research in conferences around the country, is a LEED accredited professional and certified green builder. His research is focused on cutting edge sustainable building practices, energy and air quality monitoring systems and Deep Energy Retrofits. He has managed the construction of multiple LEED platinum projects in both commercial and residential construction. Jeremy has extensive project management experience in both conventional and alternative construction, as well as design, research and development projects. He is proficient in 3D modeling, energy modeling, energy monitoring and design. Jeremy brings innovation, building and material science, and an overall sustainable building expertise to the Hammond & Company team.
