9:00-9:45 OPENING PLENARY: RETROFITTING SUBURBIA
Sponsored by Stone Pigman Walther Wittmann L.L.C.
Manship Theatre

Ellen Dunham-Jones

Co-author of Retrofitting Suburbia: Urban Design Solutions for Redesigning Suburbs

Professor, School of Architecture, Coordinator of Master of Urban Design Program, Georgia Tech

MODERATOR: James E.A. Slaton

Member, Stone Pigman Walther Wittmann, L.L.C.; Board Member, Center for Planning Excellence

How can existing suburban developments be redesigned into more friendly, accessible, sustainable places? While there has been considerable attention by practitioners and academics to development in urban cores and new neighborhoods on the periphery of cities, there has been little attention to the redesign and redevelopment of existing suburbs. Attendees will see how development in existing suburbs can absorb new growth and evolve in relation to changed demographic, technological, and economic conditions.

10:00-11:30 PLANNING FOR HEALTHY COMMUNITIES
Sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Louisiana and LSU AgCenter
Manship Theatre

Vayong Moua

Director of Health Equity, Community Initiatives and Health Equity, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota

Mark Fenton

Adjunct Associate Professor, Tufts University

MODERATOR: Michael Tipton

President, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Louisiana Foundation

Many roads are designed with only cars in mind, limiting our transportation options while also having a deleterious impact on our health. Many neighborhoods, particularly those in low-income areas, are not equipped with sidewalks and bike lanes, and these are the same places that have higher rates of childhood obesity, diabetes and other poor health outcomes. This session will explore how we can make a fundamental shift in fostering healthier communities through addressing the intertwined issues of health, equity and the built environment.

EQUIPPING COMMUNITIES FOR ACTION
Hartley / Vey Studio

Bryan C. Lee, Jr.
Director Place + Civic Design, Arts Council of New Orleans

Sue Mobley
Community Engagement Manager, Tulane City Center

MODERATOR: Alexandra Miller
Principal, Asakura Robinson

Many communities are seeing greater public interest in urban planning. But barriers can arise between planners, cities, and communities without a conscious effort to place residents on an equal footing for changing their communities, or when planners aren't able to clearly help resolve conflict between competing interests. Hear about the engagement materials being developed to explain complex concepts to the public, build capacity for fuller community participation, and provide tools for achieving a collective vision. This panel focuses on tools and strategies for building community capacity to participate and assist in the planning process. Case studies will include healthy community design guides, vacant land and blight toolkits developed for New Orleans and Pittsburgh, resources for street musicians, and the Design as Protest Program.

PROACTIVE FLOOD RISK REDUCTION ACTIVITY

Sponsored by Oxfam
Hartley / Vey Workshop

Jeannette Dubinin
Project Manager, Center for Planning Excellence

John Lopez
Coastal Sustainability Program Director, Lake Pontchartrain Basin Foundation

Rosa Herrin
Gulf Coast Policy Officer – US Regional Office, Oxfam

FACILITATOR: Janet Tharp
Director of Planning, Center for Planning Excellence

Join this interactive session to learn about best practices for flood risk reduction at various scales, including green infrastructure, elevation of homes and businesses, plus stormwater management and drainage.

Program and Development Director, Shared Use Mobility Center

Stephen Smith
Sales Director - East, RideCell

Lindsey West
Executive Director, Baton Rouge BikeShare

MODERATOR: John Spain
Executive Vice President, Baton Rouge Area Foundation; Board Member, Center for Planning Excellence

This session will feature new modes of mobility such as bike-share, ride-share, car-share, and autonomous vehicles that will redefine how we move in the future. How can government and the private sector use emerging technologies and data, along with smart policies, to improve efficiencies, design integrated systems, and create more transportation choices?

RESILIENT HOUSING LUNCH SESSION Hartley / Vey Workshop

Bruce Tolar
Principal, Architect Bruce B. Tolar, P.A.

Jeffrey A. Carney
Director, LSU Coastal Sustainability Studio

Claudette Hanks Reichel
Director, LaHouse Resource Center

MODERATOR: Mathew Sanders
Resilience Policy & Program Administrator, Louisiana Office of Community Development

Housing resiliency in the face of extreme weather events can include renovating a flooded house or building new housing. This session will explore locally appropriate building materials, floodproofing techniques, and modular housing—important tools that, along with smart policy, can help communities recover faster and reduce future risk.

INNOVATION AND IMPLEMENTATION IN COMMUNITY BUILDING Sponsored by Onsite Design Manship Theatre

Jason King
Principal, Dover, Kohl & Partners

Tommy Pacello
President, Memphis Medical District Collaborative

MODERATOR: Haley Blakeman
Director of Implementation, Center for Planning Excellence

Speakers will highlight lessons learned from the field, application of new data and creative planning tools to incorporate anchors and adaptation measures into the planning and implementation process. Case studies include Southeast Florida's interactive planning model, Miami Beach's sea level rise adaptations, and lessons learned from real estate development, medical district work, and the Bloomberg philanthropy projects.

LOUISIANA/TEXAS DIALOGUE: BUILDING RESILIENCE THROUGH GREEN INFRASTRUCTURE ON THE GULF COAST Hartley / Vey Workshop

David Batts
Director System Solutions, Construction EcoServices

Steven F. Albert
Principal, Sherwood Design Engineers

Danica Adams
Senior City Planner, New Orleans City Planning Commission

Aron Chang
Urban Designer, Waggonner & Ball

MODERATOR: Margaret Robinson
Principal, Asakura Robinson

This session opens a dialogue between two states, Louisiana and Texas, both at the forefront of green infrastructure implementation on the Gulf Coast. The panelists represent the perspectives of policy makers, landscape architects, architects, and planners on collaborative successes in building resiliency in this region.

Camille Manning-Broome

Senior Vice President, Center for Planning Excellence

Missy Stults

Program Officer, The Climate Resilience Fund

Mark Shafer

Director, Southern Climate Impacts Planning Program

MODERATOR: Lauren Marschall

Project Manager, Center for Planning Excellence

As climate change impacts the country, we must address how we prepare for and respond to current and future hazards both in planning and implementation. The featured speakers will highlight the changes in natural hazards occurring across the country and how some communities are planning and prioritizing strategies to address environmental risks.

4:15-5:00 CLOSING PLENARY: BUILDING THE CITIES OF THE FUTURE
Sponsored by CB&I
Manship Theatre

Welcome: Tyson Hackenburg
Vice President & General Manager, CB&I

J. David Waggoner, III
President, Waggoner & Ball

MODERATOR: Camille Manning-Broome
Senior Vice President, Center for Planning Excellence

For a city to have a future, it needs a reason to be, an evolving set of purposes fit for its place and time, with people who can interact and support the city, as well as one another and themselves. The global village is a local condition, with soils, water, climate, ecologies, history, culture, networks, and vitality, an economy to nourish its activities. Well-valued and re-balanced resources and other fundamentals matter more as disruptions shake the assumptions that underly social conventions and institutions in an era without absolutes. The city of the future will innovate and invest to develop its capacity for exchange within itself and with neighbors near and far.

Sponsored by the Greater Baton Rouge Association of REALTORS®
Manship Theatre

Welcome: Tiffany Palmer
President, Greater Baton Rouge Association of REALTORS®

Charles L. "Chuck" Marohn, Jr.
President, Strong Towns

MODERATOR: Jessica Kemp
Vice President of Policy and Advocacy, Center for Planning Excellence

For more than six decades, governments have been accustomed to building new transportation infrastructure, expanding existing systems, in addition to constructing completely new facilities. While liabilities have grown, transportation funding has not kept up. Now there is a desperate need for local governments to shift from building to maintaining, and to shift from an approach that emphasizes expansion to one where we mature our use of existing investments. In difficult economic times, this is a challenging, but necessary, realignment. Topics to be covered include centralization vs. local decision-making; streets and roads; congestion and safety; the role of state and federal funding; transit; walkability; and bike options.

9:00-10:00 THE PROS AND CONS OF INCLUSIONARY HOUSING
Hartley/Vey Workshop

Sasha Hauswald
Director of State & Local Policy, Grounded Solutions Network

Andreanecia M. Morris
Executive Director, HousingNOLA

MODERATOR: Rachel DiResto
Executive Vice President, Center for Planning Excellence

This panel will present an overview of the process and findings from the Inclusionary Zoning study underway in New Orleans – and will more broadly focus on how other communities in Louisiana could benefit from this type of zoning to address their housing needs. Panelists will discuss how density bonuses, as-of-right permitting and tax abatements are tools that can expand the availability of housing that is affordable to moderate- and lower-income workers and create the right housing mix.

Derek Chisholm

Planning Section Lead, Transportation, New Orleans, AECOM

Bryan Jones

Central Division Strategic Planning Officer, HNTB Corporation

Our regional transportation system can be a threat or an asset to regional competitiveness. Congestion affects our region's viability as a place to do business and attract further investment. Our resiliency and preparedness as a region depend upon a well-connected redundant system that can be flexible in times of disasters. This panel will feature how cities and regions are using new approaches to plan for and address mobility, particularly for commuters, including carpool incentives, data-driven prioritization and technology to improve system functionality.

CREATIVE COMMUNITY PLACEMAKING: NEW TOOLS FOR AN OLD IDEA

Hartley / Vey Studio

Jason King

Principal, Dover, Kohl & Partners

Lynley A. Farris

Creative Director, Mid City Studio

Wendy Bencoter

Project Director, Shreveport Common

MODERATOR: Ryan Benton

Designer, Center for Planning Excellence

Creative Placemaking is a fairly new term for a process of community development and engagement that has been happening informally in communities for years. The National Endowment for the Arts defines creative placemaking as a process in which partners from public, private, nonprofit, and community sectors strategically shape the physical and social character of a place around arts and cultural activities. Creative placemaking animates public and private spaces, rejuvenates structures and streetscapes, improves local business viability and public safety, and brings diverse people together to celebrate, inspire and be inspired. Speakers will discuss their unique methods and lessons learned from doing this type of work here in Baton Rouge, around the state, and nationally.

10:00-11:00 FINANCING TOOLS: CASE STUDIES USING NEW MARKETS & HISTORIC TAX CREDITS

Hartley / Vey Workshop

Whitney LaNasa

Director, Stonehenge Capital Company

Dyke Nelson

Founder/Lead Designer, DNA Workshop, LLC

MODERATOR: Troy Villa

Partner, Breazeale, Sachse & Wilson, L.L.P.

There are a number of financing opportunities available to new and redevelopment projects, including New Markets and Historic Tax Credits. A case study of 440 on Third will be presented, paying specific attention to the financing mechanisms that were used.

11:00-12:00 STRATEGIES FOR ADDRESSING VACANCY AND ABANDONMENT
Hartley / Vey Workshop

Dekonti Mends-Cole
Director of Policy, Center for Community Progress

MODERATOR: Gwen Hamilton
President/CEO, East Baton Rouge Redevelopment Authority

This session will provide a national overview of techniques and tools available to clean up blighted properties, best practices in code enforcement strategies, and the next model for redevelopment.

1:20-2:45 ANNUAL NEW CASE LAW UPDATE ON LOUISIANA AND NATIONAL ZONING ISSUES
Sponsored by Jones Walker, LLP
Manship Theatre

Christopher J. Tyson
Newman Trowbridge Distinguished Associate Professor of Law, LSU Law Center

MODERATOR: Justin Kozak
Research & Policy Analyst, Center for Planning Excellence

In this session, attendees will be updated on zoning and planning case law, highlighting both Louisiana and national examples and their implications.

1:20-2:45 WANT SMARTER GROWTH? USE NATIVE PLANTS
Hartley / Vey Studio

Marc Pastorek
Founding Partner and Landscape Designer, Pastorek Habitats, LLC

Robert Seemann
Program Director, Baton Rouge Green

Designer, Center for Planning

The benefits of applying Smart Growth and resiliency principles to long-term visionary planning often take time to pay dividends. The use of appropriate native plants in this planning is no different. This session will focus on how the use of native plants over non-natives is the smarter, more resilient choice for providing economic, biodiversity, stormwater, and ecosystem benefits for years to come in both urban and non-urban environments. Panelists will also discuss the process of establishing and managing native plantings, as well as key partnerships needed to make the use of natives possible.

1:20-2:20 STATUS OF CORPS OF ENGINEERS' WETLANDS PERMITS IN LOUISIANA
Hartley / Vey Workshop

Martin S. Mayer
Chief, Regulatory Branch, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New Orleans District

Boyd A. Bryan
Partner, Jones Walker LLP

MODERATOR: Rudy Aguilar III
Associate, McGlinchey Stafford

Speakers will give an overview of the current status of wetlands permitting in Louisiana, including the cost of mitigation on projects, the former mitigation method – Modified Charleston Method, and the new Mitigation Method – Louisiana Wetland Rapid Assessment Method (LRAM). Attendees will hear about expanded hydrologic units (drainage basis) and ability to use preservation for credits. Recent legal developments will be reviewed, such as the Hawkes decision, the 2015 EPA Clean Water Rule and the stay of the rule by the federal 6th Circuit Court of Appeal.

2:20-3:30 SUPREME COURT CASES ON SIGNAGE
Hartley / Vey Workshop

Christopher K. Odinet
Horatio C. Thompson Endowed Assistant Professor of Law, Southern University Law Center

James Carpentier
State & Local Government Affairs, International Sign Association

MODERATOR: Frank M. Duke
Planning Director, Baton Rouge/East Baton Rouge Parish Planning Commission

Speakers will discuss First Amendment Supreme Court cases on signage and potential impacts on sign ordinances in Louisiana. Attendees will learn about the background and best practices to use when evaluating and writing sign regulations after the Reed v. Town of Gilbert U.S. Supreme Court ruling. It will offer solutions for sign codes that are easier to administer and enforce while allowing the reasonable use of such signage for residents and businesses alike. Most communities understand the need for these types of signs when it comes to promoting businesses, identifying properties for sale or lease, or supporting special events. But they also struggle with the administration and enforcement of temporary signs given the ever-changing nature of this sign type. This session will provide guidance on complex and vexing legal issues such as content neutrality. The session also will discuss concerns raised by the Supreme Court's recent decision in Reed v. Town of Gilbert regarding the regulation of temporary and other signs.

LA SAFE: A RISK-BASED APPROACH TO RESILIENCE PLANNING

Hartley / Vey Studio

Mark Goodson
Director, Resiliency Solutions, CB&I

Steve Cochran
Associate Vice President, Coastal Protection, Environmental Defense Fund

Steven Bingler
Principal, Concordia - Community Centered Planning + Design

Resilience Policy & Program Administrator, Louisiana Office of Community Development

This panel discussion will focus on the State of Louisiana's activities surrounding its $92.6M grant awarded at the conclusion of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development-sponsored National Disaster Resilience Competition. Specifically, discussion will focus on the state's plan to utilize $40M of this award to develop resilience strategies and invest in programs and projects across a multi-parish coastal region. These strategies – to be developed in 2017 – will pair best available data on future flood risk with traditional planning techniques to anticipate future population changes and growth-development opportunities.
