OUR STORY

BANGOR'S VINEYARD

At a latitude of 42°53' south, Bangor's vineyard is one of the most southerly in Tasmania, and the world. This makes it a true cool climate site, and we manage our vineyard to produce premium quality, cool climate wine.

We are a small family vineyard. We planted our first 3 hectares in 2010, and our fourth hectare in 2014. Our grapevines are hand tended by us, and all our grapes are handpicked.

We grow Pinot Noir, Pinot Gris and Chardonnay, grape varieties that are well suited to our cool climate site. More than likely you'll come across a sixth-generation Dunbabin while you're here!

The Stories Behind the Wine Labels

The Bangor farming property has been in the Dunbabin family since the 1890's, and farming activity on the property dates back to the early days of the colony. Each of our wines have been named after a piece of history on the property, and tell a small story about the early days of Van Diemen's Land and earlier.

Jimmy's Hill Pinot Gris

Rising a commanding 1002 ft, Jimmy's Hill is Bangor's highest point and one of Tasmania's convict era semaphore stations. With a simple hut for shelter, Jimmy, the rugged bushman who called the remote outpost home, maintained a vigilant eye on adjacent stations, standing by to relay messages.

Back in the early days of the colony there was a network of semaphore stations around both the Forestier and Tasman Peninsulas, and between Port Arthur and Hobart Town. They were used for relaying messages around the colony (the email/text messaging system of the day), and they could relay a message from Port Arthur to Hobart Town in just 15 minutes. Jimmy ran the semaphore station here at Bangor, so the hill became locally known as Jimmy's Hill, as it is still known today.

1830 Chardonnay

In 1830 John Dunbabin, convicted of horse stealing, was transported to Van Diemen's Land. Having narrowly escaped the hangman's noose, he was determined to make the most of his opportunities. Through sheer hard work, John earned his freedom and bought his own land, paving the way for five generations of farming at Bangor.

John Dunbabin is where the family's long farming legacy first began. Transported to Tasmania at the age of 23 as a convict, John was hard working and determined. He earned his freedom and bought the first parcels of land for his own farm in Bream Creek in 1856, paving the way for 7 generations of family farming in Tasmania. John's sons bought the first parcels of land at the Bangor property in 1890. Bangor remains a family farm, managed today by Matt and Vanessa Dunbabin, along with their three young children Henry, William and Amy.

Captain Spotswood Pinot Noir

In the 1830's, Captain John Spotswood held the first land grant at Bangor, including the site where our vineyard now stands. Early accounts record that he rather enjoyed a drink, and we expect that he would have fancied a glass of this Pinot Noir named in his honour!

In the 1830's, Captain John Spotswood held the first land grant at Bangor, including the site where our vineyard now stands. He ran a small farm, growing crops and livestock. His wooden cottage stood opposite the vineyard until the 2013 bushfire when it was unfortunately lost, but we were able to salvage the convict bricks from his chimneys and re-lay them as the hearth in The Shed, keeping a small part of him with us.

Abel Tasman Pinot Noir

Tasman Bay, on Bangor's northern coastline, is the site where Abel Tasman planted the Dutch flag on December 3rd, 1642. We have named this wine in honour of Abel Tasman and the beautiful island that would come to bear his name.

Bangor has a close connection to Abel Tasman. Abel Tasman's expedition, with the ships Heemskirk and Zeehaen, were the first Europeans to visit Tasmania, sighting the west coast November 24, 1642. They followed the coast eastward and attempted to anchor in Storm Bay, but bad weather forced them on. They continued on around the Tasman Peninsula and into North Bay, anchoring north-west of Cape Frederick Hendrick (the northern shores of what today is Bangor) on the 1st of December. They were relieved to have finally found a good harbour, with Tasman's journal recording "therefore we are thankful to Almighty God with grateful hearts". During the three days they remained at anchor, members of the crew, led by Pilot-Major Francoys Jacobsz Visscher searched the shoreline for fresh water and edible plants, finding little of either. They saw smoke and signs of human habitation, but did not make any contact with Aboriginal people. On December 3rd, the ship's carpenter Pieter Jacobsz hoisted the Dutch flag on Bangor's shore in Tasman Bay, before the expedition sailed north, naming Maria and Schouten Islands, then heading eastward towards New Zealand. The shores of the Forestier Peninsula were the only place that Tasman landed during his entire 1642 voyage.

The Dunbabin family manage Tasman Bay for its cultural and natural heritage. The area is protected as part of Bangor's 2000 hectare network of conservation reserves. Today, the shoreline of Bangor remains largely unchanged, and looks very similar to that explored by Tasman in 1642.
