

LIV BENEDICTE BREKKE

I'm an architect with a passion for design that derives from its context. I believe good architecture comes from research and a deep understanding of the context and I enjoy researching the circumstances of a brief. I love drawing, and always try to find new ways of representation and believe that architectural drawings is a lost art that should again become a big part of the profession and design process. In the future I hope to work on everything from a small cabin to a big urban design strategies.
