

MEXICO 2015 SPRING FIELD SCHOOLS

Who we are

IRRI Mexico and CATIS-Mexico are both International Placement Partners of EWB-UK. Both organisations have over ten years experience in their respective fields and have given hundreds of courses in Mexico and abroad.

Come and explore with us

Explore systems applied in real development contexts. Look closely at the social, political and economic contexts that drive sustainable solutions in Mexico.

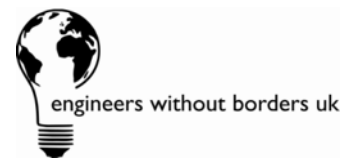

In March 2015 we are holding one week field schools in sustainable food systems and integrated water systems, in Mexico.

SUSTAINABLE FOOD SYSTEMS:

You are what you eat
7 – 15 March 2015

We confront new challenges around sustainable food production, related to the environment, health and cost. With these, our food systems need to adapt and improve. in order to better meet the demands of our growing population.

Key Topics

- Food Production and Distribution
- Sustainable Food Production
- Closed Food Systems (Energy)
- Large Scale Organic Production and Processing
- Small Scale Organic Production
- Agricultural Education
- Preserving Agricultural Traditions

INTEGRATED WATER SYSTEMS

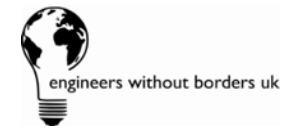

Water is life

14 – 22 March 2015

We know the important role water plays in our homes, industries and environments, and our water systems experience new pressure daily. We need to rethink our approach to water systems, making them more integrated and intelligent.

Key Topics

- Regenerative Water Systems
- Maximizing Water Resources
- Rainwater Harvesting
- Water and Belief Systems
- The Right to Water
- Water Contamination
- Household Water Treatment

Our field schools

Our Field Schools include theory workshops, discussion panels and field visits. Participants have the opportunity to interact with experts from all walks of life.

Other activities

We leave free time in our Field Schools for students to explore Mexico City and San Miguel, including museums, cultural and historical sites and a trip to local hot springs.
