Everybody Sell

(An Editorial)

Elsewhere in this issue is a picture of agents and officials of the Maine Central who attended another in a continuing series of freight meetings. This series has been in progress for several months, and has now covered every corner of the system. The purpose is to take a close look at traffic to see how it is moving, and if its not moving on the Maine Central, to find out why.

Implied, if not actually said, the message of these meetings is to get out and sell the service of the Maine Central.

There's no reason why this message should be confined to the agents and sales force, and no reason why everyone shouldn't take it upon himself to "sell" the Maine Central and its service whenever possible. Here are 17 ways we can help:

Courteous words, not sharp retorts
Smiles, not blank looks
Enthusiasm, not dullness
Response, not indifference
Warmth, not coldness
Understanding, not closed minds
Attention, not neglect
Patience, not irritation
Sincerity, not sham
Consideration, not annoyance
Remembering People, not forgetting them
Facts, not arguments
Creative Ideas, not the humdrum
Helpfulness, not hindrance
Giving, not getting
Action, not delay
Appreciation, not apathy

The Maine Central Customer is not only right, but he's the most important person in the world.

You have a chance to help the lad shown in the picture—and hundreds of others who need similar help——but only one chance this year. That chance will come when the United Fund solicitor—probably one of your fellow workers—comes around this month asking you to make your annual pledge.

It's your one chance to help people like this boy, and many like him, who have real problems. It's your chance to give them a chance; to help soften the blow of illness, poverty or broken homes.

But let's talk for a minute about this particular boy. We can't say who he is, but obviously he's being helped by one of the larger Greater Portland United Fund agencies. First, he was treated, then fitted to his appliance, and now, finally, he's being taught to use it. He's had a terrific injury, one that could easily destroy his use to himself and to his community. But his expression shows that with help, he's well on the way to becoming what everyone expects a boy to be.

The answer to his problem—the best answer we have, at least—was and is the United Fund. And the United Fund is nothing more than you and I, sharing our good fortune with others who somehow aren't as fortunate.

Do you have a son or daughter in Scouts? Does your son swim at the Boys' Club? How about the YMCA? These are only three of the 40 Greater Portland agencies who are supported by your United Fund pledges. Each of these makes our community a better place, and each of us can help support them.

So let's be generous when the solicitor taps us on the shoulder. Let's do our share this month. It will be our only chance this year.

United Fund Drives Begin

The United Fund campaign is on the move in the Maine Central's largest employee concentrations at Portland, Bangor and Waterville, with new goals set to meet increasing needs of public agencies.

In Portland, the annual campaign for United Fund pledges began on Oct. 2, after several organizational meetings. Company chairman Joseph H. Cobb was assisted in the early stages of the campaign by George H. Ellis, Assistant Comptroller, Auditor Revenues, who this year is serving as vice chairman of the Greater Portland United Fund Campaign. Louis Rancourt, legislative representative, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, also assisted in the organizational phase of the Portland Terminal - Maine Central campaign, as did Chesley Robie, head clerk, Auditor Revenues, who this year has been assigned to the Service and Utilities unit of the Greater Portland organization.

The Portland - Terminal — Maine Central organization includes the following:

Operating-Mechanical departments, John E. Hamilton, assistant to the director of personnel; C. R. Bell, transportation assistant; Melvin L. Charity, road foreman of engines; Malcolm D. Billington, foreman, Rigby Engine House; C. P. Lennon, trainmaster, and J. E. Buzzell, foreman, Rigby Car Shops.

Purchases and Stores, Earl Russell, Maurice Allaire and Hugh F. Flynn; Freight Traffic department, Royden Cote; Engineering Department, Richard M. Aylward; Accounting department, S. J. Conley; Executive, Statistical and Real Estate departments, Eric P. Smith, chief statistician.

In Waterville, the United Fund campaign for Maine Central pledges is being handled by George P. Silva, superintendent, Waterville Shops, and Basil Higgins, general agent.

In both cities, the opening of the United Fund drive was accompanied by the circulation of letters from E. Spencer Miller,

FROM THE DESK OF

E. SPENCER MILLER

TO MY FELLOW WORKERS:

Running through recent articles on the railway problem by such literati as E. B. White and Lewis Mumford, and embedded in the remarks of certain members of our national legislature, are threads of insinuation, even outright allegations, that the railroad industry is suffering from management which is unprogressive, reactionary, inept and insincere in its dedication.

Following counsel of a great American political leader, “let’s look at the record”, first considering accomplishments of the Maine Central corporation over the past twenty years, and then reflecting briefly upon the performance of government in the transportation field.

Twenty years ago this Company had outstanding (as a heritage of the depression) two classes of preferred stock, both with substantial dividend arrearages, eight bond issues secured by eight different mortgages or indentures, four leased lines, and one publicly-held issue of debt on one of these leased railroads. In less than two decades we have eliminated one class of preferred stock and its arrearages, cut the number of shares of the second class by two-thirds, eliminated all mortgages except one covering three issues of bonds, and eliminated through merger or acquisition every one of the lines of railroad which this Company once leased on onerous terms. By virtue of Herculean effort we have removed the impossible burden of the passenger deficit and the crushing weight of one of the most inequitable local tax structures in the United States. Severe opposition was encountered in both of the last two struggles.

Attention has been given with excellent traffic results to the pioneering, engineering and construction of special railroad equipment tailored to the customer’s needs and aimed at greater economy for him and greater traffic security for us. Ten years ago, in cooperation with International Paper, Maine Central engineered and constructed a fleet of open side, bulk head pulpwood rack cars similar to those utilized in the South, but with deck and ceiling still designed to take care of snow and ice accumulations encountered in Maine.

An entirely new concept of mechanical loading and unloading of clothespins came into being through equippping new types of covered hopper cars with pneumatic hose attachments. Specially designed cars for the handling of crumb pulp from Shawmut to Fairfield have been constructed with completely smooth interior, double doors and other special features. A fleet of gondolas and flat cars has been converted into heavy duty cars for handling loads of slabs (heretofore a waste product of many saw mills) into a new chipping plant at Oakland where specially designed high side gondolas carry the finished product to destination. Less spectacular and more orthodox procedures have included standard hopper cars for the handling of cement to a bulk plant in Massachusetts with a new rate concepts bringing increased efficiency to the shipper and securing this traffic to Maine Central—a type of traffic which has been lost to so many eastern carriers. Recently hundreds of cars of petroleum have been taken off the highways and returned to the railroad through new procedures, car acquisitions and new sales approaches.

The foregoing does not attempt a comprehensive recitation of accomplishments or new departures by a management which has been forward looking and productive, but it is a description in miniature which will be now set against a brief but factual account of procedure by the sovereign power of government.

Congress has passed laws compelling Maine Central to pay railroad retirement taxes at the rate of 63 1/3% while our competitors’ rate will be increased next January to 3 1/8%. It requires Maine Central to pay an unemployment tax at 3 3/4% of its payroll, while our competition in the State of Maine pays at the rate of 3 1/2%. Through the Employers’ Liability Act it is possible to sue the Maine Central in case of the death of the employee for $500,000 (which has recently been done), while the maximum recovery for the death of an employee of a competitor under the Maine Workmen’s Com-penion Act is $12,150 including burial expense. Is there any economic or social sense to this differentiation in legislative treatment?

In conclusion we enjoin the facile writer with no transportation education, and the American Congressman, to take a “look at the record” before freely criticizing railroad management and before being proud of governmental regulation of transportation.

THEIR HANDS OUT KEEP HIS DIGGING IN

The Maine Central MESSENGER is published monthly at Portland, Maine, by employees of the Maine Central Railroad Co., and the Portland Terminal Co. It is circulated without charge to active and retired employees of these companies, and to customers and other friends throughout the Nation.

Average Maine Central Worker Gets 'Fringe' Benefits of $1,007 A Year

You don’t see it in your paycheck, but Maine Central and Portland Terminal Company employees receive an average of $1,007 in “fringe” benefits every year. Some call them “fringe benefits,” but “fringe” is an inadequate term for the $2,740,890 the companies spent in 1960 for health and welfare, railroad retirement, vacations and other programs. Rather than fringe benefits, they should be called employee benefits, because they mean security for Maine Central and Portland Terminal Company workers now and in the future.

The $2,740,890 in these employee benefits spent by the companies in 1960 was about three times the Maine Central’s net income for 1960. The per-employee average is slightly more than $1,000, varying with job classification.

But whatever you call it, “fringe” or employee benefits constitute a big responsibility for the companies, and a big contribution to your well-being.

The actual employee benefit figures for 1960 are as follows:

- Vacations $825,605
- Holiday Pay (est) 244,846
- Railroad Retirement Act 896,776
- Railroad Unemployment Insurance 498,234
- Health and Welfare 260,929
- Sick Leave Allowance 14,500

Total Cash Contributions in 1960 $2,740,890

Working on the Railroad—The new solid-state Univac, a close cousin to electronic brains now serving in the BOMARC and Nike-Zeus missile programs, joined the Maine Central Railroad in September to replace an earlier model used by the company’s accounting department to compute wages, revenues and statistics and to carry out many other mathematical assignments. Ralph Gordon, manager of data processing and systems manager, unwraps one of the new Univac’s four units.

At Calais Freight Meeting—Agents, officials and freight traffic representatives attended another in the continuing series of freight meetings at Calais in September. Left to right, W. E. Strout, agent, Calais; W. E. Bridgeham, agent, Machias; W. J. Laighton, agent, East Machias; J. W. Wiggins, chief engineer; L. W. Neal, Danforth; M. C. Olsen, assistant sales manager; J. E. Bouchard, trainmaster, Bangor; Frank Alger, manager of highway operations; Victor Brown, agent, Eastport; R. L. Wakefield, agent, Columbia Falls; R. L. Spaulding, commercial agent, Bangor; W. L. Blanchard, agent, Vanceboro; Phil Holmes, agent, Woodland; Willard E. Pierce, assistant general manager; H. M. Brown, agent, Dennysville; R. E. Baker, general manager; W. E. Grass, agent, Mattawamkeag; President E. S. Miller; R. C. Merrow, freight traffic manager; J. P. Scully, executive assistant; Warren Overlook, eastern agent, Bangor; R. E. Farren, Jr., agent, Cherryfield; R. E. Foley, sales representative, Portland.

Towards the helping hands of railroad unemployment insurance the Maine Central and Portland Terminal companies in 1960 contributed $498,234

Insuring the welfare of Maine Central employees when they reach the age of retirement the railroad and terminal company in 1960 paid out $896,776

A Million Dollars Worth of Freight—Ordnance for a Navy vessel on the ways of the Bath Iron works is shown at St. Johnsbury enroute to the famed Maine shipyard. The over-width loads included the box car, its contents worth $700,000, and the flat, worth $300,000.
Philbrick's Moose Wins Photo Contest

Ken Philbrick, a laborer employed at the Stores Department in Waterville, has won the first prize in the Messenger's vacation photo contest for Maine Central and Portland Terminal employees.

A check for $10 will go forward to him shortly. At the same time the three runner-up prizes of $5 each will go to Mary Morse, stenographer in the Engineering Department, Portland; Retired Locomotive Fireman Bernard P. Coffin, South Portland and Mrs. Grace Hoglund, secretary in the executive department, Portland.

The contest proved one thing, even for those who did not win a prize. Maine Central and Portland Terminal folks spend their vacations in a lot of unusual ways.

MeC Wins Again; 28-Stroke
Margin Downs B&M at Sanford

The Maine Central and Portland Terminal golfers continued their domination of the Boston & Maine for the fifth straight match at Sanford Country Club September 16. Twenty-eight strokes was the winning margin this year, 1767 to 1795.

This golf match, played in perfect weather conditions, proved to be our biggest and best to date with 57 MeC and 54 B&M players. Nearly every department and part of the state was represented by the Maine Central with 32 General Office workers, 9 from Rigby, 6 from Bangor, 4 from Waterville, 3 from Brunswick, Mal Bowie, Steep Falls, and Ralph Jellerson and Ben Whitney coming out of retirement, making up the strong winning team.

Maine Central individual trophy winners were as follows:

Henry Kenny, Clerk, Cumberland Mills, tied with Art Edwards for low net in Class B, but Art won the sudden death play-off on the first extra hole, with a regulation par 4 to Henry's 5. In the putting contest Bill Martin, Steve Conley and George DiMauro tied in Class A, but since Steve had won the driving contest and George wasn't present for the play-off, Martin was declared winner. Ralph Jellerson sank his putt on the second extra hole to beat out B. Tatarznuk, Rigby, and Tom Hayes, General Office, for Class C putting contest.

The committee of Steve Conley, Ed Haley and Jerry Shea wishes to extend its thanks to all who participated, with special mention to the following for their assistance in conducting the tournament: Bucky Gato—Scorer; Mrs. Sam Napolitano, Mrs. George Silva, Mrs. William Martin and daughter, for their help in conducting the putting contest and helping with listing scores. We would also like to thank Clayton Plummer and Dick Harrington of the B&MRR for making all the arrangements with the golf course for date and perfect weather, and the excellent meal after the match which was served to 70 hungry golfers.

Plans are now being made for the Maine Central Tournament next spring at either the Waterville or Penobscot Valley Country Clubs. Any suggestions on how to improve or help the committee run next tourney will be greatly appreciated.

RIGBY

We all feel better with the advent of the cool fall days after some of late summer's hot humid weather. The change in seasons seems to be one of the State of Maine's chief assets, giving us something to look forward to.

Machine shop, Theodore Cote, and family, (numbering 31 in all) met recently at Two Lights State Park for a family reunion. Ted's son, Theodore Jr., has entered Knowlton's Machine Shop for apprentice training as machinist.

Foreman Frederick Lombard at this date is in one of our local hospitals for a check-up and possible treatment.

Mrs. Michael Gresley, widow of former Laborer "Mike" Gresley, died recently. Flowers were sent.

Store's Department Laborer Frank MacDonald, retired, died recently at the age of 75 years. A floral tribute was sent.

Machine Robert "Bob" McKinney's latest hobby is motorcycling. He has a Harley Davidson and will use it for transportation as long as weather permits.

Machine shop employee Joseph Nalbach visited Norfolk, Va., on his vacation.

General Foreman Malcolm Billington was recently in Chicago attending a convention in connection with railroad business.

Retired Machinist Clyde and Mrs. Burnham are on their way to California to see the country in that section of the United States. On the return trip they will take a side trip to Fond-de-lac, Wis., where Mrs Burnham has a sister, "Who knows, we may stay there and settle," Clyde says.

Your reporter, on vacation, visited Presque Isle, accompanied by Mrs. Wetmore, and her mother who visited relatives, and saw the potato industry at the height of the fall harvest.

TRAIN CREWS

Engineer "Jim" Fay at this writing is coming along good after being hospitalized at Portland. Engineer Earl Drew of Bangor recently has been off duty to enter a local hospital for treatment.

Trainmaster "Ed" Bouchard is sporting a nice new Pontiac four-door hard top. All black with white top. A very nice looking car.

Also sporting a new DeSoto is "Rollie" LaFlamme, car inspector at Northern Main Junction.

Conductor Raymond Bond of the Eastern Division spent his vacation with his family touring Prince Edward Island. Stopped at Moncton to visit the new hump yard that has just been completed there and was given a personal tour of the yard. He reports that everything is up to the mark in modern railroading, TV and all.

Sympathy is extended to Conductor James Hayes on the sudden death of his wife Florence who passed away at their summer cottage at Old Orchard Beach the latter part of August.

Station Agent "Bud" Burwood of Cornish has resigned and plans to go back to college to get his degree. Having already completed three years, has only one to go. Brother "Bob" has bid in the job vacated by his decision.

Retiring after many years is Earl Crocker, first track at Tower MD. Mr. Republican, as he was sometimes called, has been in the same locality for many years. His job was bid in by Tom MacDonald, former operator at Waterville.

Operator "Charlie" Whittaker of Rumford has retired after many years at the same spot.

The old station at Gardiner has been taken over by an audit to phase concern. New construction is being started on land which formerly was the parking lot.

The old station at Lewiston is now occupied by a steel company. Also new construction is being carried on there in the parking lot which will be quite a size when completed.

Trainman "Ted" Farrell has returned to work after several weeks of sick leave.

Trainman Gayland Wheeler has purchased a cottage at North Belgrade and has enjoyed the summer vacation.

Engineer Roy Adams suffered a severe attack and was hospitalized for a while in Waterville. He's coming along fine at this writing.

The old engine house at Rigby has been demolished along with the heat plant trestle. Looks very bare around there now.

Chief Signal Engineer P. A. Stanford and his assistant Phillip Lenz have been riding the line in Waterville, trying out a new type of radio for future use. From the results on the line we were on, they will be very much improved over the old sets.

Retired Conductor George Larson and wife Ester, Conductor "Jimmy" Hayes and Yard Conductor and Mrs. Arthur Genese of Waterville, Euphrosia Kilmartin of the Ladies Auxiliary of The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen were at Cranston, R. I., recently attending the New England Convention of the Railroad Trainmen.

The battle of the bovine between section foreman "Eddie" Bolduc and the fence in which it was hung up in on three different occasions at Cumberland Center has been licked. For a period of several days, it seemed as if the same cow got caught in the fence and could not free itself without human help and was necessary to go to its assistance. Coming of the cooler weather, it will be housed so "Eddie" can eat in peace.

Most of the fellows in train service have had their vacations now and the rest are waiting for hunting season which will soon be with us.

ENDS FINAL DAY—Arnold S. Baker, South Portland, engineer of the Yard 8 switcher, stepped down from the cab for the last time Sept. 22, completing 49 years and seven months with the Maine Central and Portland Terminal Companies. Co-workers presented him with a box of cigars along with their best wishes for a long and happy retirement.

AUGUSTA

Gen'l Agent Ralph Tracy recently enjoyed two weeks vacation. Ralph did a little painting on his house and also attended a family reunion in Bar Harbor.

Freight Checker Burleigh and Mrs. Foster enjoyed their vacation in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Conductor Marshall Pratt recently underwent minor surgery at the Augusta General Hospital and now is at home recuperating.

LEWISTON

Operator Gene Soychack is weekending at Moosehead Lake. If we can believe him, some good pictures of some splendid fish will appear in next month's Messenger.

Track Supervisors clerk Monique Levesque has had some of the boys excited over her recently acquired culinary ability. After all, there is no coffee like good coffee.

Chief Clerk Howard Ham is taking the last two weeks of his vacation. We hope Howard survived the hurricane at Tripp Lake. Other than that he hit the jackpot insofar as weather is concerned.

Yard Brakeman Charlie LaFlamme is spending a weekend in Three Rivers, Que.

Crossing Tender Ray Flynn made a flying trip to Bangor recently to say goodbye to his son who was enroute to college in Canada.

Freight House Foreman Fred Juniper did some deep water sailing over Labor Day. We wonder if he acquired a Third Mate's ticket? At any rate, he suffered no ill effects and the salt air must agree with him.

Checker Win Reynolds made an elaborate study of time tables and schedules and received his passes to spend his final week of vacation in Pittsburgh. He wound up at Webber Pond.

Carman Sam Merrow has recently traded for a big new car and states that it will pass anything on the road except a gas station, and now says the "compacts" are beginning to look good.

Storekeeper James Blethen has recently suffered a severe heart attack and has been confined to the Thayer for several weeks. As of this writing 'Jimmy' is coming along fine, tho it will be quite some time before he will be able to return to work.

On a recent morning, Carman Sam Desveaux jumped from his wife's car, placed his new hunch bucket on the ground and dashed madly for the fresh fish in the Shop. Electrician Dan Giroux, leaving early for a call to Pittsfield, backed his car from his parking spot, smacked the new hunch bucket, thermos and all. Sam is now feeding from a paper bag.

Painter Helpe: Don Gerald has been a recent visitor. He has been on the sick list nearly all summer with a serious heart condition.

We are becoming somewhat disillusioned with human nature, especially when some of the ex-commis-sioners around here have convenient lapses of memory about statements that they have previously been the result of serious consideration of beautiful friendships which the writer has struggled diligently to build over the years.

Shop Carpenter Ken Strout has been confined to a local hospital for some time for tests and treatment.

The Stores Office Force remember the birthday of Chief Electrician Armstrong (the All American Boy) on Sept. 12. He was presented with an attractive cake, tastefully frosted and decorated by Stenog Yvette Guite, complete with candles. The 'over the hill' sign was a wooden dice. 'Rollie' was heard to mutter, when he attempted to cut the 'cake' that the oven must have been too hot.

Carman S. McIvor and his partner in the Federated Committee at the Shops. He was recently re-elected to the office of Vice President of District No. 42, L. A. of M. representing the Maine Central employees.

ARRIVED IN AUGUST—Jeffrey Allan Steves, son of Carman and Mrs. James Steves, was born at the Waterville Osteopathic Hospital Aug. 10 weighing in at 5 lbs. 11 oz. He was the second old at the time of the picture and had gained 3 lbs.

One of our new Bekramen, E. J. LaLiberte, rear Bekramen one day, was promoted from Track No. 19 was asked what was on the rear. Not knowing himself, he replied, 'Box cars, mostly empty's and loads.'

Due to abolishment of two clerical jobs in Waterville, Dick Fecteau has bunted into the Engineering Department of the General. Marie Armstrong is now laid off.

We are all sorry to hear of J. L. Blethen's illness and wish him a speedy recovery.

Dick Fecteau and his wife spent the weekend with their daughter and her family in Lynn, Mass., recently.

Ralph Snow has been taking his wife out to dinner at the Lake Aroostook, Pound in Lincolnville Beach quite often this summer. The only trouble is he eats his dinner and part of her's.

The luncheon held at Vallee's Steak House in Portland for the correspond-ents was very enjoyable. It was very pleasant to see everyone again.

BARTLETT, N.H.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pickens have a new little boy in the family, named Jay Elson. Congratulations to them.

We have received a note from re-tired crew foreman Jim Chadbourne in Florida. Seems he takes exception to our quote in the last issue, 'New England is very nice in the summer time.' He allows his meaning to that its very nice all of the time, both winter and summer. We agree.

Car inspector E. M. Dinmore had the misfortune to have a large bear run afoil of his car the other evening, doing some damage to the front end, with unknown damage to Mr. Bear. The bear was rolled around somewhat but collected his marbles and went on.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hine have plenty of help from local section crews, is laying rail in the mountains. About one mile of track is laid.

A. J. Whitten, foreman of the Conway Centre section, is having his vacation.

THE Feminine SIDE

Mrs. Camille J. Plummer, wife of Trainman Merle Plummer, has completed another successful season with her gladiolus hobby, growing about 6,000 bulbs at her South Portland field, and continuing her activity as a member of the Maine Gladiolus Society. She is shown with a prize-winning arrangement of glads at a recent show. It all started, she says, when husband Merle bought 60 bulbs as a birthday present in 1952, but next season—her tenth as a glad hobbyist—may see as many as 10,000 bulbs in the ground.
