

Privacy Policy

The George Washington University Cyber Security Policy and Research Institute does not sell, rent, exchange or otherwise disclose information about our site visitors. We do not track visitors to our Web site.

Uses of voluntarily provided personal information: If you choose to email us and provide personally identifiable information about yourself, we will not use the information for any purpose other than to respond to your inquiry.

Information gathering: Our site may capture limited information (e.g., user-agent, URIs requested by the user, client-side and server-side clickstreams) about visits to our site, but we use this information only to analyze general traffic patterns (e.g. what pages are most/least popular), to perform system maintenance, to carry out other administrative tasks, or to determine technical requirements.

Cookies: This website does not use cookies.

Scope and External Websites: This privacy statement applies to the George Washington University CSPRI website. That website includes links to external websites. GW is not responsible for the privacy practices/policies of these external sites. If you have concerns about the privacy practices/policies of the external sites, you should fully read their individual privacy statements when you arrive at them and then act as you see fit.

Contact: If you have any concerns about this policy, please contact us at cspraa@gwu.edu or by telephone at (202) 994-5613.