Title: INSIDE ROCK ROYALTY with Ava Cherry

Logline:

Every week “The Black Barbarella,” drops in on musical royalty to reconnect, reminisce and revisit each master’s place in the pantheon of music. As she extracts the personal stories and creative secrets behind the timeless hits, Ava orchestrates a jam session. She may use any tactics at her disposal, but must weave the music into the activity she found her host enjoying when she arrived. All in thirty minutes.

Synopsis:

As her first love, David Bowie, croons: “Where are we now?” in his latest release, “The Black Barbarella” sets out to answer that question with a gusto. Whether she finds her legendary friends walking dogs, planting gardens, working out or cooking dinner, this bodacious songstress will serve as cheer-inducer and creative catalyst. Ava will escort her hosts through their memories of musical adventures, accomplishments and creative tactics, gradually inducing creative labor and midwifing a new song.

“The Black Barbarella” will traverse the globe performing feats of breath control and imagination while remembering, laughing, cooking, astrology reading, planting, decorating, eating, drinking – until the music flows from her former clients, friends, lovers, mentors and admirers. Just as Mr. Bowie thanked her for opening his eyes to new people, genres and approaches, so will the “unsuspecting hosts” of each episode:

- Mick Jagger
- Keith Richards
- Ronnie Wood
- Robert Plant
- Bruce Springsteen
- Stevie Wonder
- Bryan Ferry
- Eddie Murphy
- Yoko Ono
- Bette Midler
- Chaka Kahn
- Aretha Franklin

Ava’s sassy attitude, protean talent and diverse skills will infuse each visit with honesty and intimacy – the kind that can only be spawned by years of genuine friendship. Whether she has to play jester, nutritionist, fashion advisor, psychologist, baby sitter or dance partner, Ava will spend 30 spontaneous minutes playing muse to musical royalty far and near, past and present. The way she used to in the days when all of them were Young Americans.
