ADAPTIVE SPORTS CAMP 2015

At SportForward, we agree with Nelson Mandela that “Sport has the power to change the world.” Since 1992, we have used sport as an instrument that conveys messages that empower, values that elevate, principles that educate, and ideals that build lasting peace around the world.

Last September we launched our first-ever event in the US, hosting local kids and youth living with physical and intellectual disabilities for a free, fun day of sports activities and recreational games. Partnering with organizations that seek to serve these families, we were able to impact over 70 members of the Norman and OKC metro area communities, including these amazing kids and their families, volunteers, staff, and sponsors at our inaugural Adaptive Sports Camp.

This September, SportForward will be conducting its second annual Adaptive Sports Camp. We are planning an even bigger event this year to celebrate and support kids with disabilities, and we need your support to keep this camp free for all participants. Any money raised beyond costs will go toward supporting SportForward’s work around the world.
