The advertisement features a central photograph of a white plate filled with several cookies. The cookies are of various types: some are chocolate chip, some are double chocolate brownie, and some are M&M's. A Heath Bar is also visible on one of the cookies. The plate is set on a red and white polka-dot napkin. The background is a solid blue color. Text is overlaid on the image in various fonts and colors, including white and black. A nutrition label is located in the bottom right corner of the image.
