IAVE 2016 — Speaker Information (in order of presentation)

Dr Andrew Higgins
Andrew is a graduate of the Royal Veterinary College, where he also obtained his PhD in inflammation and clinical pharmacology. He obtained his MSc in Tropical Animal Health and Production at the University of Edinburgh. After 6 years at The Wellcome Foundation he was appointed Scientific Director & Chief Executive of the Animal Health Trust research institute. He was Honorary Scientific Advisor to Fédération Equestre Internationale, chair of the British Equestrian Federation’s Veterinary Panel, Honorary Veterinary Advisor to UK Jockey Club, and Doping and Medication Consultant for the Greyhound Board. He is a Fellow of the Zoological Society of London and has been a trustee of several charities, including Kennel Club Charitable Trust, Animals in War Memorial Fund, World Horse Welfare, and the RCVS Trust. Dr Higgins was Editor-in-Chief of The Veterinary Journal from 1990 to 2015. He was editor of The Equine Manual and authored With the SAS and Other Animals.

Dr. Michael Doherty
Dr. Michael Doherty is Professor of Veterinary Clinical Studies and Dean-Elect in the School of Veterinary Medicine, University College Dublin. He is a diplomate and former President of the European College of Bovine Health Management and a European Specialist in Sheep Health and Diplomate of the European College of Small Ruminant Health Management. A graduate of the University of Edinburgh, his background is in cattle and sheep practice, including a period at the University of Glasgow’s farm animal Teaching Unit. A Director of Animal Health Ireland (AHI) and Chair of the AHI Technical Group for the national Bovine Viral Diarrhoea eradication programme, he is involved in the promotion and development of national dairy herd health programmes in Ireland and online postgraduate education in dairy herd health. He is Editor-in-Chief of the Irish Veterinary Journal within BioMed Central.

Karen Young
Karen Young received her VMD and PhD from the University of Pennsylvania, where she also completed a small animal internship and a residency in medical oncology. She is Professor of Clinical Pathology at the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Wisconsin–Madison, past Editor-in-Chief of Veterinary Clinical Pathology, and co-author with Mary Christopher of Writing for Publication in Veterinary Medicine: A Practical Guide for Researchers and Clinicians (Wiley, 2015). She has conducted workshops on scientific writing at the University of Wisconsin and at national and international venues in conjunction with Mary Christopher. Karen is beginning a term on the National Library of Medicine’s Literature Selection Technical Review Committee, the NIH Study Section that evaluates biomedical journals for inclusion in the MEDLINE database.

Suzanne Jarvis
Suzanne Jarvis is Managing Editor at BMJ, managing the BVA portfolio of veterinary journals – Veterinary Record, In Practice, Veterinary Record Open, and Veterinary Record Case Reports – a role she has been in for nearly four years. She originally joined the BVA journals as an Assistant Editor in 1998 before moving on to Deputy Editor, with a particular remit for research content in Veterinary Record in 2003. Previous to this she started her publishing career at Cavendish Publishing, a legal publisher. Suzanne has been involved in the launch of two new journals, Veterinary Record Open and Veterinary Record Case Reports, and the major restructure of Veterinary Record to make the digital and print versions more user-friendly for researchers and practitioners respectively.
Barbara von Beust
Dr. von Beust is a Swiss veterinarian who is board-certified in veterinary clinical pathology in USA and Europe and is specialized in laboratory medicine. She received her PhD from Washington State University in veterinary cell-mediated immunology research (with a strong emphasis on molecular biology techniques). She has many years of experience in laboratory management and data analysis, interpretation, and reporting in preclinical safety and development. Dr. von Beust is co-author of several publications, including book chapters, addressing standard and best practices in veterinary clinical pathology in preclinical safety and development; she has participated as an invited speaker at numerous international conferences and workshops addressing these topics. Dr. von Beust has been the Editor-in-Chief of Veterinary Clinical Pathology since 2013 and has served as the chair of the Education Committee of the European College of Veterinary Clinical Pathology since 2011.

Sarah de Rijcke
Sarah de Rijcke is Associate Professor and Adjunct Director at the Centre for Science and Technology Studies (CWTS), Leiden University. De Rijcke leads a research group at CWTS that examines interactions between research assessment and practices of knowledge production. This research program is situated at the intersection of Science and Technology Studies and the sociology and anthropology of science.

Kornelia Junge
As Senior Research Manager at Wiley, Kornelia is responsible for the customer-facing and internal usage reporting around the Wiley Online Library. She joined the publishing industry in 1990 and has held various positions in marketing and market research at Wiley and Springer. She has been involved with usage statistics since 2001. With a background in psychology and social sciences, focussing on statistics and methodology, her main interest is on developing meaningful metrics and ensuring data quality in the measurement of online behaviour.

Mirjam Curno
Mirjam Curno completed a PhD in molecular oncology at the University of Dundee in Scotland in 2006, and then moved to the University of Lausanne, Switzerland as a postdoctoral fellow to work on viral immunity. From 2010 to 2013, Mirjam was the Managing Editor of the Journal of the International AIDS Society, where she also organised workshops on scientific writing and supervised the Conference Abstract Mentor Programme run by the society. Since 2014 she works for Frontiers, an open access publisher based in Switzerland and is currently the Editorial Director. In addition Mirjam was elected to the council of the Committee on Publication Ethics in 2012.
