THE MAGAZINE

FirstCar Theory is published under exclusive license from the Driver & Vehicle Standards Agency (DVSA) and was launched in 2012. The magazine is handed out to every single learner driver who completes their theory test, at the point of them receiving their theory test results.

The A5, 52-page magazine contains perfectly tailored editorial for the learner, helping inform, educate and enthuse the readers on all things motoring: learning, buying, insuring and owning. The magazine reaches these drivers at an early stage as they begin to form brand opinions and make key purchasing decisions. It's the perfect platform for advertisers to build brand affinity and connect with this audience.

TARGET MARKET

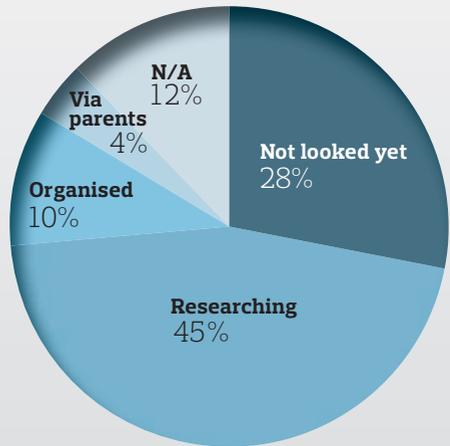

Every learner driver in the UK. All theory test candidates are handed a copy of the magazine, in the theory test centre on completion of their test – pass or fail. 1.9m theory tests were conducted in the last 12 months with 939k passes*.

A third of readers plan to take their test within a month and 82% within two. Three quarters are researching or have not looked for post-test car insurance yet. Over half will be buying their first car within six months.
