BENCH BAR COMMITTEE

A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away..., Judge John-David Sullivan began a Bench Bar Committee to improve collegiality between the bench and the bar. The Committee meets several times a year to share information of interest and keep each other abreast of new developments in their respective areas.

The Bar members of the Committee will serve for a 2-year term until March 2015. If you have information or questions that you would like shared on behalf of the Bar, please contact a Bar member on the Committee. If you are interested in serving on the Committee in the future, please contact the LCBA Executive Committee.

COURT NEWS

District Court Judge Devin Odell is currently attempting to create, as a resource for the Court and the bar, a library of the historical Colorado statutes, to be maintained at the Courthouse (as electronic resources do not currently allow research into historical statutes). These would include the Revised Statutes of Colorado (1868), General Laws of Colorado (1877), General Statutes of Colorado (1883), Revised Statutes of Colorado (1908), Compiled Laws of Colorado (1921), Colorado Statutes Annotated (1935), Colorado Revised Statutes 1953 (with supplements), Colorado Revised Statutes 1963 (with supplements, and older versions and supplements for the Colorado Revised Statutes (1973). If you have any of these volumes (or others that may not be included) and would be willing to donate them to this project, please contact Judge Odell at (970) 494-3802.

Hello! I hope you are well. I am writing to you as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Consortium for Racial and Ethnic Fairness in the Courts or NCREFC, to invite you to the 26th Annual Meeting in Cody, WY.

The NCREFC has been working since 1988 with the highest courts of each state to create commissions and task forces to examine the treatment of minorities in those courts, and to provide technical assistance and expertise on the subject of racial and ethnic fairness in the courts. Each year at its annual meeting, the National Consortium brings together thought leaders and delegates of state justice systems from around the country to share their collective knowledge about best practices within their court systems for achieving fairness and access to justice for all.

Two years ago, a colleague and I had the opportunity to attend the 24th Annual Meeting of NCREFC in Omaha, Nebraska. I was so impacted by the presentations, guest speakers, and the wealth of information about local Native Americans’ rights, the American Swastika, the different opportunities available for minorities in this country, and the Consortium’s work that I could not help but participate in the breakout sessions; at the end of the meeting I was asked to join their Advisory Board and I accepted. The conference took place in conjunction with Nebraska’s 7th Annual Chief Standing Bear Breakfast, in which they honored and celebrated Chief Standing Bear’s enduring message of “Equality Before the Law” on the 133rd Anniversary of the Standing Bear v Crook decision. One of the keynote speakers was Larry Ecohawk, Assistant Secretary of Indian Affairs, and enrolled member of the Pawnee Nation of Oklahoma. What a wealth of information! The sessions made me reflect on the work that I do to provide language access to racial and ethnic minorities, and I realized that I needed to learn more about the populations that I serve.

In March 2013, I attended the 25th Annual Meeting of the NCREFC in Washington, DC. Its theme was “Remembering the Past as We Envision and Embrace the Future”. It was the perfect time to learn more about civil rights; law, justice, and the Holocaust, and equal rights for GLBT people with the Nation’s Capital providing a historical backdrop as the Meeting took place a short time after the Presidential Inauguration, the swearing-in of new Congressmen beginning their tenure, and a number of significant anniversaries and milestones were being celebrated during the year. It was the 151st anniversary of the Compensated Emancipation Act, which served as an early model for the more well-known Emancipation Proclamation; the 150th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation, the Battle at Gettysburg, and the Gettysberg Address. It was also the 50th anniversary of the March on Washington, the 20th anniversary of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, and the 40th anniversary of the Gideon decision. The keynote speaker was Ernest Green, one of the Little Rock Nine - a group of African-American students enrolled in Little Rock Central High School in 1957. Their enrollment was followed by the Little Rock Crisis, in which the students were initially prevented from entering the racially-segregated school by the Governor of Arkansas; they then attended after the intervention of President Eisenhower. At the end last year’s meeting I was asked to join the NCREFC’s Board of Directors, I accepted, and at the present time I am the only Coloradon in the organization. What an honor to serve along Supreme Court and Appellate Division Justices, Judges, Diversity Directors, Court Managers, and attorneys!

This year’s meeting will take place June 25th-28th in Heart Mountain, WY, one of several sites around the country “where people of Japanese ancestry were unjustly incarcerated during WW II. The HMWF memorializes and educates the public about the place and events that have come to symbolize the fragility of democracy and supports inquiry and research so that future generations understand the still relevant lessons of the Japanese-American incarceration experience.”

I am including a link to the Consortium’s website so you may gather more information (http://www.national-consortium.org/). This year, I am the ONLY person from Colorado attending the meeting. We would like to see more participation from our beautiful state. I will be presenting Colorado’s report at the Report of the States’ session, where each state presents what is being done to promote access to justice, equal and language access, and fair treatment of racial and ethnic minorities. The event qualifies for 13.25 CLE credits, including 2.75 ethics credits, from the WY state Bar.
Please consider participating in this year’s Annual Meeting, so close to Colorado!

Should you need additional information, feel free to message me, or email Sophie Broussard at sbroussard-ext@heartmountain.org

June 27, 2014 Records and Information Management Seminar in Grand Junction - 6 CLE credits

I am with the ARMA International, Western Colorado Chapter and we are hosting a records and information management seminar in Grand Junction on Friday, June 27. The Colorado Bar Association has approved this seminar for 6.0 CLE credits. The speaker, John Isaza, is a lawyer in Southern California; he is a dynamic, knowledgeable speaker on eDiscovery and other records management issues. I have attached a flyer and some additional details about the presentation topics. If you have any questions, please feel free to call or e-mail me.

DEADLINE FOR ADVANCE REGISTRATION IS FRIDAY, JUNE 20.

Thank you!

I. Information Governance 101 - 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.

Today's organizations must manage data in a way that reflects the likelihood that they will need to produce this data to a regulatory agency or opposing party in a lawsuit. Factors such as technology's impact on communication and protection, and creating a defensible legal hold protocol, require organizations to take a proactive, systematic approach to managing records and information. These factors also require that organizations continually test and update policies to ensure compliance, minimize risk, and strengthen its own case if tested in the courtroom. This session offers practical tips and guidance with regard to implementing, monitoring, and updating records policies and will focus on ARMA International's Generally Accepted Recordkeeping Principles® (the "Principles") as key foundational elements for overall Information Governance.

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

1) Use the Principles as the foundation for effective information governance and industry best practices;
2) Take away practical tips on how to draft, implement, test and update records policies;
3) Discuss recent cases that demonstrate the risk of failing to properly manage corporate data.

II. Electronic Document Management & Legal Requirements - 10:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m.

Electronic document management is a must in the corporate setting; however, it can create a legal minefield for professionals preparing for e-discovery while trying to meet compliance requirements. In this session, participants will:

1) Know legal requirements impacting electronic document management
2) Take away examples of the types of records and documents that are discoverable
3) Assess electronic evidence obstacles & social media challenges to prepare and protect your organization in e-discovery and recordkeeping compliance
III. Workshop for Developing Litigation Holds – 1:00 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. & 2:45 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

This litigation hold workshop will offer a step by step practical approach designed to help participants recognize when an organization should be preserving records (both paper and electronic) relating to government investigations or litigation. These events are commonly referred to as trigger events. Participants will study various factual scenarios taken from known examples and interact with each other and the presenters to work through the litigation hold process. By analyzing the factual scenarios as a group, participants will work through each step in the RIM business process necessary to properly preserve evidence in a best practices manner. Participants will learn to analyze trigger events and take a systematic approach to investigating, identifying and preserving evidence (including paper records and electronically stored information).

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

1) Identify common events which may require an organization to suspend its normal records retention policy and take affirmative steps to preserve evidence;

2) Implement a systematic business process to investigate records relevant to the event and identify custodians of relevant records;

3) Plan the building blocks needed to implement an effective litigation hold business process within their own organization; and

4) Take away helpful practical advice to help their organizations implement legally defensible litigation hold business processes.
