

Hoffstot S&P Releases VR Music Video Episode of Ongoing Comedy Saga

New York, 14 JULY 2018 - Today, on Bastille Day and Iraqi Independence Day, Hoffstot Sound & Pictures released the VR film "Altered Web Reality" to watch free in ÜR Theater, marking chapter vii in the 'X' Prototype Tour promoting the underground music comedy, Mystery of Simbi_Xombies.

In keeping with the futuristic themes of the comedy, chapter vii boasts a never-before-seen immersive cinema viewing experience, complete with revolutionary moving camera shots, music video editing, extreme close-ups, a long-take fight scene, partially presented in a virtual reality theater.

The story follows a Brooklyn grunge band whose reggae comeback on the web, combined with precipitous world events around altered foods, unwittingly triggers a global 'Xombi' rebirth. The Kickstarter Staff Pick also features an original soundtrack; genres spanning K-pop, grunge and reggae.

"The screenplay evolved organically over the course of 12 years - its intent to lament families displaced by colonial diaspora, another kind of virtual reality which plays metaphorically into the immersive version of the film," said Korean American writer-director David Hoon Kim.

On October 31, the public can download Mystery of Simbi_Xombies in ÜR Version: (1) 360°VR feature-length Director's Cut, (2) the Original Soundtrack, (3) Behind-the-Scenes Story Secrets, plus (3) Free Share-Alike Commercial Blockchain Copyright Privileges.
