

With an enormous singing voice that transcends her small frame, Mary Jennings has carved out her own unique niche in the industry by doing things her way. Born into a family with strong musical roots, she began playing piano at five and has fond memories of her grandparents teaching her vocal harmonies at a young age – a skill that is very evident in her work today. Mary’s teenage years were marked by the sudden death of her mother in 2001 that prompted a seismic surge in her musical expression and still inspires her songwriting today. A Casio-sponsored artist, she was featured in an online advertising campaign for the company’s new line of keyboards in 2011 and her song “The Darkness” was placed in the Lionsgate motion picture “Devil Seed.” Mary has organized a number of tours as well, treating fans to a unique stage set-up when performing on her own, prominently featuring a loop pedal that she uses to effortlessly layer rhythmic beats and beautiful background harmonies over her unique piano playing and vocals. Her newest album, Metamorphosis, subtly discusses the topics of the evolution and nature of life in the same way that fans have seen and heard Mary’s music evolve over the years.
