Gelato Recipe

1. Place the milk and cream in a saucepan over a medium heat. While it's warming, place the sugar, skimmed milk powder and cornflour in a measuring jug and mix well.
2. Using a probe thermometer, measure the temperature of the milk and cream. When it reaches 40°C, add the dry ingredients. Whisk together and stir continuously with a spatula until it reaches 85°C.
3. Fill the sink with ice and cold water to create an ice bath. Plunge the saucepan into the ice bath and stir occasionally. You need to bring the temperature down to 10°C within 30 minutes.
4. When the mix is cooled, place in a sealed container and refrigerate for at least 4 hours, but preferably overnight.
5. You're now ready to churn it into gelato. Start by passing it through a fine sieve.
6. Blitz with a hand blender.
7. Pour into your ice cream machine and churn until frozen.
8. Scoop your freshly churned gelato into a container and cover with greaseproof paper and a tight fitting lid. Place in the freezer and consume within one month.
