THE FOOD AND DRINK

1. To represent their backgrounds, the couple went with a "Midwest meets Middle East" theme at cocktail hour, offering hors d'oeuvres such as fresh dates, which are popular in Lebanese cuisine, and cheeses from Tony's home state of Wisconsin. 2. Vintage wine decanters used as décor added to the reception's theme. 3. Guests dig into a meal of lamb and lemon chicken at long tables set in rows on the grass.

Opposite. To create relaxed cabanas, curtains, shelves, and shutters are hung over tables from ladderlike structures. Mason jar lanterns filled with candles are suspended from antique riddling racks, once used to store wine, for a rustic chandelier effect.

THE RECEPTION

1. A massive oak hung with photos serves as a family tree. 2. In lieu of a guest book, cards and pre-stamped envelopes were on hand so guests could mail their well wishes. 3. The newlyweds hold a banner that references Tony's proposal, when he asked Leila if she'd be with him "for all my days." Opposite: Simple white cakes, some with ribbons and fresh figs, are displayed on a bookshelf.
