SERIES EDITOR
Ira Robinson (Concordia University)

In the contemporary world, North America (inclusive of the United States and Canada) stands together with Israel as one of the two greatest and most culturally creative Jewish communities. “North American Jewish Studies” seeks to publish books that explore a wide spectrum of topics related to the life, politics, religion, and culture of this diverse and vibrant community. It does so from a variety of methodological perspectives, including history, literature, anthropology, and religious studies.

ABOUT ACADEMIC STUDIES PRESS

Academic Studies Press is an independent scholarly publisher devoted to advancing knowledge and understanding in the humanities and social sciences, with an emphasis on Jewish Studies and Slavic Studies. Through our outstanding, opinion-leading authors and series editors, we continuously strive to enhance understanding through our monographs and critical companions, improve the accessibility of classic works through our translations, and inspire dialogue through our scholarly commentaries. We champion innovative ideas and new, creative interpretations.

For information on how to submit a proposal, please visit: www.academicstudiespress.com/for-authors/
A Story of Jewish Experience in Mississippi
LEON WALDOFF
December 2018 | 360 pp.; 11 illus. | 9781618118899 | $29.95 | Paperback

“Caught in a treacherous landscape of race and faith somewhere between blacks and whites in the deep South, the Jews of twentieth-century Mississippi carved out successful but often troubled and secretive lives. Now, as America struggles with resurgent attacks on the Other, Leon Waldoff has written an insightful look into his own family history and a Jewish community’s painful search for the right path through hatred and jealousy toward a precious freedom.”

Anti-Shechita Prosecutions in the Anglo-American World, 1855–1913: “A major attack on Jewish freedoms”
DAVID FRASER
July 2018 | 258 pp. | 9781618117427 | $119.00 | Hardcover

The book examines historical attempts by animal welfare groups, in Australia, Canada, England, Scotland, and the United States, to ban the Jewish method of slaughter (shechito). For the first time, the book studies these prosecutions, brought in the name of “humanity,” that reveal an underlying, unrelenting, and inescapable antisemitism.

Conversations with Colleagues: On Becoming an American Jewish Historian
Edited by JEFFREY S. GUROCK
April 2018 | 272 pp. | 9781618118561 | $79.00 | Hardcover

“While all of the scholars assembled in this volume are well known for their intellectual perspicacity, their essays here shine light on the humanness of the scholar—the struggles and triumphs each experienced as children, young adults, students, and beyond. In many ways a coming-of-age story narrated by multiple voices, Conversations with Colleagues offers an unprecedented exploration of the evolution and structure of American Jewish history as a field.”
—Lila Corwin Berman, Murray Friedman Chair of American Jewish History, Director of the Feinstein Center for American Jewish History, Temple University

History, Memory, and Jewish Identity
Edited by IRA ROBINSON, NAFTALI S. COHN, & LORENZO DITOMMASO
December 2015 | 390 pp. | 9781618114747 | $79.00 | Hardcover

“The editors sought to—and succeeded in—bringing together important studies demonstrating how the past has been a source of memory and a means to shape identity in various contexts. ... This volume presents a welcome contribution to an ongoing debate about the relationship between history and memory and the ways the past shapes present mentalities and future prospects.”
—Jason Lustig, University of California, Los Angeles, Canadian Jewish Studies Vol. 25