

MEDITERRANEAN SEMINAR FALL WORKSHOP

(UC Mediterranean Studies Multi-Campus Research Group)

www.mediterraneanseminar.org

CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS

The Mediterranean Seminar will hold its
FIRST QUARTERLY WORKSHOP

“Why the Mediterranean?”

from 10.30am–5pm on

Friday, 8 October 2010

University of California Santa Cruz

Santa Cruz CA

The featured scholar:

David Abulafia

(Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge University)

will present

Mediterranean History as Global History

and

Three pre-circulated papers

will be discussed:

Locating the Medieval Mediterranean

(Sharon Kinoshita, Literature: University of California Santa Cruz)

“Conveniencia” or “the Convenience Principle”:

A Model for Ethno-Religious Interaction in the Medieval Mediterranean” (Brian A. Catlos, History: University of California Santa Cruz /Religious Studies:

University of Colorado at Boulder)

Shadows of Jews in the Early Medieval Muslim Conquests:

A Mediterranean Perspective

(Fred Astren, Jewish Studies: San Francisco State University)

Faculty and graduate students from all UC Campuses, as well as scholars from universities across California and beyond are welcome. Lunch will be provided and a reception will follow.

Travel Support:

UC faculty and graduate students attendees may, upon submission of receipts, be reimbursed up to $350 for transportation and lodging. Non-UC scholars are welcome to attend, but we cannot guarantee they will be eligible for reimbursement.

Registration:

Please contact Courtney Mahaney (cmahaney@ucsc.edu; UCSC IHR) by September 27 to register for the workshop and to arrange for on-campus parking.

The UC Mediterranean Studies Multi-Campus Research Project is organized by The Mediterranean Seminar. Administrative support is provided by the UC Santa Cruz Institute for Humanities Research.