Marcus Milwright (Faculty)

Biography

Marcus Milwright completed the B.A. (Hons) at the University of Warwick in 1999. He joined the Department of History in Kent in 2006. His research focuses upon the authorship of the historical period, the art and architecture of the Islamic Middle East, some cultural interactions in the medieval natural world. He is a Senior Lecturer in Islamic archaeology. He has travelled to the Middle East, Asia, and Africa on research. He has research interests in medieval architecture, and epigraphy. He has published several articles on Islamic art and architecture. He has also published several books on Islamic archaeology, including Islamic Art and Architecture: An Introduction. He is currently working on a book on the role of Islamic art in the medieval period. He has also published several articles on Islamic archaeology, including Islamic Art and Architecture: An Introduction. He is currently working on a book on the role of Islamic art in the medieval period. He has also published several articles on Islamic archaeology, including Islamic Art and Architecture: An Introduction. He is currently working on a book on the role of Islamic art in the medieval period. He has also published several articles on Islamic archaeology, including Islamic Art and Architecture: An Introduction.