University of Oregon Department of Romance Languages

SPAN 607 Medieval Sephardic studies (Fall 2017)
Thursdays 4:00-6:50 in Villard 201 (CRN 16180)
Instructor: Prof. David Wacks (wacks@uoregon.edu)
Office hours: by appointment online at http://bit.ly/1ZIQjn3

Description:
Students will read a variety of narrative and poetic texts written by Sephardic (Spanish) Jews during the middle ages (1200-1500) alongside more canonical works by Christian Iberian authors working in the same time period. We will read these works through the interpretative framework of diaspora studies, with a focus on explaining the effects of diaspora on cultural production. By reading the Sephardic works alongside their Christian counterparts and focusing on the literary strategies used by Sephardic authors we will gain insight into how these authors were in dialogue with the literature of the dominant Christian majority. MA students: Period 1.

Learning objectives: By the term end, students will be able to:

- summarize secondary literature on primary texts
- apply analytical concepts from secondary literature to original analyses of medieval texts
- summarize and analyze medieval texts on the basis of close readings and short argumentative essays grounded in textual example
- identify and catalog peer-reviewed publications in Modern Language Association format
- document a critical argument with primary sources and peer-reviewed secondary essays

Rule: All electronic devices must be powered off and stowed before entering classroom. Any student operating an electronic device during class will be asked to leave.

Requirements:

20% Comentario de texto (close reading) (any 3) Analysis of key passage from primary literary text. Contains summary of content, context of passage within the work, significance of the passage for the work as a whole. (min 600 words). Hand in a paper copy at end of class on day due.

10% Presentación teórica: Synthesis/analysis of a primary Sephardic text and a secondary critical text about Diaspora (Baer, Clifford, Tölöyan, Boyarin and Boyarin)
15% Annotated bibliography. A bibliography of at least 10 peer-reviewed scholarly studies in MLA format (critical monograph, critical essay in edited volume, peer-reviewed journal articles only). Each entry accompanied by a summary and evaluation. Submit paper copy in class.

15% Conferencia: Preliminary version of the critical essay delivered orally in format of brief academic conference paper. Maximum 1500 words. Performance only. No textual version needs to be submitted.

40% Ensayo crítico: MLA Format, convincing and documented argument responding to a question focusing on a primary text. Focus on interpretation of key passages of primary text. Extensive use of peer-reviewed secondary sources to provide historical, theoretical, and literary critical contexts of argument. Email to professor.

MLA Format: http://style.mla.org

Spanish Dictionary: http://buscon.rae.es/diccionario/drae.htm This is the dictionary of the Real Academia Española de la Lengua (Dicc. RAE). It contains many definitions for words found in the readings, especially usages from the medieval and early modern periods (1200-1700) that do not appear in most student dictionaries. When using definitions in your writing, enclose within quotation marks and cite properly.

Academic Misconduct (including plagiarism):

Note: all written work for this course is to be completed individually. There are no collaborative assignments in this course. Any significant similarity between student assignments will be considered an example of Academic Misconduct.

The University Student Conduct Code (available at conduct.uoregon.edu) defines academic misconduct. Students are prohibited from committing or attempting to commit any act that constitutes academic misconduct. By way of example, students should not give or receive (or attempt to give or receive) unauthorized help on assignments or examinations without express permission from the instructor. Students should properly acknowledge and document all sources of information (e.g. quotations, paraphrases, ideas) and use only the sources and resources authorized by the instructor. If there is any question about whether an act constitutes academic misconduct, it is the students’ obligation to clarify the question with the instructor before committing or attempting to commit the act. Additional information about a common form of academic misconduct, plagiarism, is available at www.libweb.uoregon.edu/guides/plagiarism/students.

Documented Disability:

Appropriate accommodations will be provided for students with documented disabilities. If you have a documented disability and require accommodation, arrange to meet with the course instructor within the first two weeks of the term. The documentation of your disability must come in writing from the Disability Services in the Office of Academic Advising and Student Services. Disabilities may include (but are not limited to) neurological impairment, orthopedic impairment, traumatic brain injury, visual impairment, chronic medical conditions, emotional/psychological disabilities, hearing impairment, and learning disabilities. For more information on Disability Services, please see http://ds.uoregon.edu/ or contact Hilary Gerdes, 346-1155. If you are not registered with Disability Services and would still like to share with me any limitations you may have in meeting course requirements please do not hesitate to do so.
