Class Descriptions

Technique for Young Actors

Featuring a vast array of techniques designed to train the young actor at the highest possible level and to prepare them for the challenges of the modern acting industry. Judging by its reputation and success rate, we think you'll find this unique class to be second to none.

Meisner Intensive

Taught at the world's most renowned acting conservatories, the technique of Sanford Meisner is the foundation of our school's curriculum. Students will study this cutting edge technique at the highest level. They will walk away from this class with a deeper understanding of the work and a more precise ability to execute it. The Meisner Intensive is our longest running and most successful class and has served as a roadmap of discovery for generations of our students.

Creative Ensemble

Using the teachings of the legendary Rutgers professor, Joseph Hart, this class starts with the basics of Shoestring technique. Students will learn about physicality, movement, and vocal training to create scenes, sets, props, and other storytelling devices which develop into a full theatrical piece. This class will instill in its students the ability to portray a character with their entire body. This technique has proven to be an essential component in becoming a fully formed actor. Just ask the cast members of Lost Angels and Lady Parts.

Acting On Camera

This class we will concentrate on applying the skills learned in technique classes. Students will become comfortable in front of the camera by actually acting on film. They will spend time on-camera and garner footage they can use to put together an actor's reel.
