A very warm welcome to our final production of 2013, John Banville's, The Broken Jug, directed by the Irish Theatre Players' Artistic Director, Ivan Motherway.

The Broken Jug is a clever adaptation of Heinrich von Kleist's classic comic masterpiece Der Zerbrochne Krug, translated by John Banville, he takes us all the way to Ballybog, a small town in the West of Ireland at the time of the potato famine.

The Irish Theatre Players are proud to put its own stamp on this comedy about a corrupt magistrate who is forced to preside over a trial for a crime that turns out to be too close for comfort... The play, first performed in the Peacock Theatre in Dublin in 1994, is a fusion of the hilarious and the horrific and we hope it will have you gobsmacked, giggly and rolling in the aisles!

On behalf of the Irish Theatre Players I would like to thank Ivan Motherway for his tremendous commitment to the Irish Theatre Players in his role as President over the past five years and I have no doubt he will continue to contribute to the ITP's success in his other role as Artistic Director.

In my first term as President of the Irish Theatre Players I would like to thank you all once again for supporting our productions because without you, the audience, the ITP's productions of great Irish drama could not happen.

Fiona Murphy, President, Irish Theatre Players.

ALWAYS SEEKING NEW MEMBERS: ACTING, DIRECTING, BACKSTAGE, FRONT OF HOUSE, TECHNICAL. COME JOIN THE ITP!
