These depict the 12 disciples along the side walls, the Ascension in the back, and the Transfiguration as the altar piece.

St. Matthew's Chapel
Sugar Hill

Widely known as the most photographed church in New England, St. Matthew's is noted for its simple, dignified architecture. The white-shingled exterior, set among fields of lupine in June, or among brilliant foliage in autumn, hints subtly at the character of the interior. The rustic beams and trusses of the ceiling, tighter with the stained glass windows depicting mountain scenes characteristic of the area. Three of the four beautiful stained glass windows gracing the chapel today came from a church in Cold Springs Harbor, New York, where they had been given by the Cammann-Lipson family.

St. Timothy's Chapel was built by the families of "Lost Nation" on the outskirts of Lancaster and completed in 1893. It remains a simple country church today, with no modern conveniences. Contact St. Paul's in Lancaster for services/ and events.

St. Francis Chapel
Marlborough

The Chapel of St. Francis among the trees at Stone Pond, Marlborough was built in 1926 by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kershaw, who lived in the large red house at the edge of the pond. Mr. Kershaw designed the chapel from 'peasant chapels' he had seen in Europe. It was constructed by Portuguese fishermen, builders from New Bedford who used a combination of plaster and seaweed in constructing the walls. In 1929 the bell was given, but not until 1979 was it hung in a stone arch. A large carved wooden crucifix hangs on the outside wall of the north side of the chapel, reminiscent of the wayside shrines on the mountains of Europe.

Located on Kershaw Ave. at Stone Pond.

Services: 9am Sun. from July through August
