

Dario Designs picks up international projects

Published October 1 2007

Dario Designs Inc. said its international unit picked up three new overseas projects.

The first is a continuation of its existing work for La Prensa in San Pedro Sula, Honduras, which is building a new headquarters and production facility on a greenfield site. DDI is now working with the publisher for equipment RFPs and is conducting a return on investment analysis, among other activities.

At Gazeta do Povo in Curitiba, Brazil, DDI is conducting an operational analysis in preparation for a final project feasibility study.

Finally, DDi is working on a large masterplan for an undisclosed project in Vung Tau, Vietnam.

EDITOR & PUBLISHER

Dario Designs Adds Overseas Projects

By E&P Staff

Published September 24, 2007 4:40 PM ET

NEW YORK Dario Designs, Marlboro, Mass., reports further momentum in its international work with three new contracts for overseas projects.

In a continuation of work for La Prensa, San Pedro Sula, Honduras, where it has completed the masterplan for a greenfield headquarters and full production facility, the firm is now working up equipment requests for proposals and a complete return-on-investment analysis, as well as continuing on into schematic design and space planning.