

Where's the Mini?

March 3, 2008

What a day! While the Mini was traveling through Atlanta, we stopped to fill-up with some of that high-octane mustard they have in the south. You wouldn't believe who was there at the gas station. Little Mikey! Yep, the little guy from the original Bologna Song commercial. Of course, he's not so little any more...

Needless to say, Mikey was pretty impressed by the Mini. He said some of his friends had told him about it, but he didn't think they were serious. "I figured they were just joking around...never thought I'd see a real Mini Wienermobile!" I had to reply, "I never thought I'd get to meet Mikey!"

We ended up drawing quite a large crowd with all the excitement. People were taking pictures left and right, and I couldn't help but ...<more>
