

MONT BLANC CLIMB

Chamonix, France

ITINERARY

Day 1:

Arrival in Chamonix. The closest airport is Geneva, Switzerland and there are easy shuttle services that will take you directly to your hotel. We meet in the evening at our hotel in Chamonix.

Day 2:

Warm up climb in the Chamonix area, probably in the Aiguille Rouge area such as the Crochue traverse or the Petite Aiguille Vert. Overnight in town.

Day 3:

Glacier travel and skills practise in the famed Vallee Blance off the famous Aiguille du Midi tramway. Overnight in town.

Day 4:

Travel to the first Hut on Mont Blanc. First involving a small cog-wheel train ride and then a pleasant hike on a trail. Overnight at the Tete Rouse hut.

Day 5:

Summit attempt of Mont Blanc via the Gouter Route. We begin just before dawn crossing the rock scrambling section in the cold hours of the morning. Once the rock section is over, it is a long moderate glacier climb to the summit. We will attempt to summit around noon with spectacular views from the top of Western Europe. We descend back to the new Gouter Hut to shorten the day and avoid loose afternoon slopes below the hut.

Day 6:

Descend back to Chamonix in the morning arriving back in the early afternoon.

Day 7:

Travel out of Chamonix back to your airport or your next European destination
