How It Works

Human digestion is an incredibly complex, compound process, involving your entire gastrointestinal system. But one thing is sure and simple; when you've got gas, bloating and stomach upset from drinking beer, nobody is happy...least of all you and your significant other.

That's where Beer AID. comes to the rescue.

Beer AID. and its proprietary digestive enzyme formula, works in the small intestine to break apart malt sugars from beer, making them more digestible. Especially today's big, sweet, craft beers. The bigger the beer, the higher the odds that it's got plenty of the unfermented sugars that can give you lots of gas and bloating.

Just take a couple of Beer AID. capsules before each beer and you – and your entire household – will be much happier for it!
