

Ancient America

Fifty Archaeological Sites to See for Yourself

By Kenneth L. Feder

Praise for Ancient America

“Ancient America takes readers on a journey to prehistoric North American archaeological sites, some well-known and others little-known, each significant in its own way.”—William R. Iseminger, Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site

“Ancient America is a unique gazetteer and guide to fifty major archaeological sites in North America. Feder provides engaging description and wise guidance, as well as his own journal entries when visiting the sites.”—Brian Fagan, University of California Santa Barbara, author of Ancient North America

About Ancient America

Explore the stunning architectural, artistic, and technological achievements of America’s first peoples (and the archaeological stories behind them) in this accessible guide to fifty historically and culturally-significant sites, all open to the public and located across the United States.

Features:

- Explores the broad diversity of archaeological sites across the continental United States – rather than a single region or a single kind of site
- Written in an accessible and engaging style, and with the explanatory depth of a professional archaeologist’s perspective
- Features over 125 illustrations and photographs
- Provides archaeological tourists with practical visitor information – including location, ease of access, kid-friendliness, and ideal times to visit

About the Author

Kenneth L. Feder, professor of anthropology at Central Connecticut State University, specializes in the archaeology of North America. He is author of several books, including Frauds, Myths, and Mysteries: Science and Pseudoscience in Archaeology and The Past in Perspective: A Brief Introduction to Human Prehistory. Feder has appeared on numerous television documentaries on the National Geographic Channel, the BBC’s Horizon, the History Channel, the Discovery Channel, and the SyFy Channel and has been featured in episodes of the Canadian-based William Shatner’s Weird or What?
