

About Future Leaders of S&P Global:

The Future Leaders of S&P Global event is designed to identify and attract a diverse range of exceptional students – including individuals from groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in the industry – in their freshman, sophomore or final academic year to learn more about our firm, business and culture, and to learn about the contributions and experiences of diverse leaders at S&P Global. This event, which takes place in our New York City location, offers accepted students a unique experience to hear and meet diverse leaders ranging from analysts to senior managers; attendance and participation in this event also provides attendees the opportunity to be considered for one of our internship or fulltime interview opportunities. Additionally, students who are selected to attend will have the potential to receive a book award for participation in our essay competition.
