

Amy (Shah) Summy – President

Amy is Naya's mom. As co-founder of The Naya Foundation, Amy is carrying out Naya's amazing spirit and wish to cure childhood cancer. Amy is an accomplished marketing and technology executive. Amy is the SVP and Chief Marketing Officer for TE Connectivity (TE), a $12 billion global technology leader in connectivity and sensor solutions, technologies at the center of our connected world. She is a member of TE's Operating Committee and a member of TE's Foundation. Amy is also a member of The League of Change, The CMO Club, Arthur Page Society and The Seminar.

In addition to her role at TE, Amy dedicates time to advocate for childhood cancer research. She serves as a member of The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia Brain Tumor Board of Visitors and is Co-Founder of The Naya Foundation.

Naya's desire was to cure childhood cancer, and she asked Amy to follow through on her wish if she was not cured. Since Naya's passing in 2014, Amy and her husband, Hank, co-founded The Naya Foundation. Amy's efforts with Naya and through The Naya Foundation have raised significant funds for childhood cancer research. The Foundation has attracted top researchers, scientists, advocates and philanthropists to enable its impact.

Prior to joining TE, Amy held senior executive positions at Sapient and SapientNitro, including Managing Director and CMO. She helped drive the transformation of Sapient from a technology consulting firm to the largest digital marketing agency in the world. Prior to Sapient, Amy held sales and marketing management roles at Dun & Bradstreet.

Amy earned a Bachelor's degree in Finance from Kent State University and a MBA in Finance and International Business from New York University's Stern School of Business.
