CHANGE SERVICE REQUESTED
A Giant in Shin Buddhism

Recently we lost a real “giant” in Shin Buddhism, Rev. Dr. Taitetsu Unno. Unno-Sensei was a professor at Smith College, but has spoken frequently at BCA temples, and in Hawaii. His books have contributed greatly to the spread of Shin Buddhism. He is most known for his books, “River of Fire, River of Water,” and “Bits of Rubble Turn to Gold.” I have used his books for numerous sermons, study classes, and for my own study.

I received an email from Dr. Toshikazu Arai, who said, “Meeting Shinran Shonin’s teachings was the best thing that happened to me in my life and I owe Dr. Unno for that.”

I think there must be countless people who can make the same statement, that meeting Ty Unno was their encounter with Shin Buddhism.

I also received an email from Rev. Koyo Kubose, who shared that Ty Unno was a “giant” in Shin Buddhism. I cannot agree more. I was very impressed by something else that Rev. Kubose shared. He said that after he heard of Ty Unno’s passing, that he put one of Unno Sensei’s books in his Obutsudan, and he would bow to his book. I think this is a beautiful expression of reverence and respect. Truly, we can continue to be guided and nurtured by Ty Unno’s teachings through his books, and to bow to his book is no different than bowing to Ty himself.

I first heard Ty Unno many years ago, during my college years, and since then I have gained greatly from his wonderful teachings. We have had him here before at OCBC to speak as well. The late Richard Ochiai and Sachi Ochiai have even hosted Dharma gatherings at their home when he has been in town.

There are so many wonderful passages from his books, but I would like to pay tribute to Ty Unno by quoting one particular section of his book, “River of Fire, River of Water.” It is from the chapter titled, “My Grandmother.”

My grandmother died a natural death at the age of eighty-six, her body weakening and her senses declining, but her mind was sharp and clear to the very end. I asked my spinster aunt who took care of her to write down any thoughts that my grandmother might express in her last moments. About a week before she passed away, my aunt tried to comfort her by saying, “Grandma, when you leave this world, I’m going to be left all alone, but you’re fortunate, because you’ll be going to the Pure Land where you’ll see Grandpa, your sister, all you old friends.” Lying in bed, Grandmother replied, “No, No! There’s no such place called Pure Land……namu amida butsu, namu-amida butsu.”

For my grandmother, there was no separation between this temporal world of samsara and the timeless life that is the Pure Land. Her “no, no” negated the Pure Land as an object of dualistic thinking, but her saying of nembutsu affirmed the Pure Land here and now, the here and now “both in and out of time.” Saichi would have fully agreed with my grandmother:

“O Saichi, where is the Land of Bliss?
My Land of Bliss is right here.
Where is the line of division?
Between this world and the Land of Bliss?
The eyes are the line of division.
Having been touched and blessed by Immeasurable Light and Immeasurable Life, my grandmother lived a full and rich life. While being a person karma-bound, she relished the life of unbounded freedom. With Saichi she could sing:

Although my defiled body remains unchanged
By the tireless working of Amida’s Compassion
My self-power turned into Other Power,
I play in the Pure Land of Amida.

A WAY OF SEEING (New Year, 2015)

Akemashite omedetō gozaimasu. Sakunen-chū wa iro iro to osewa ni narimashita. Kotoshi mo mata dōzo yoroshiku onegai-itchimasu. Happy New Year, everyone! Thank you all for all that you did for me and my family in the year just past. Please continue to favor us with your friendship again this year.

It was very nice seeing and talking with so many of you, particularly because it meant that I was in health good enough to see and talk with you, and you were also in health good enough to do likewise. As we get older, our mutual health usually enters into the conversation, as it probably should, since it is of mutual concern.

When we are in a mutual relationship and we know it, it is always good to know also whether or not it is a friendly one. Right? Friendliness or friendship is always a good thing, and if it is mutual, all the better. I know that I sometimes come across as being unfriendly; perhaps I do not return a smile when I see someone. At least I am perceived as having seen that person. Perception is a very iffy thing, you know? If you see me and, though I might not see you, you think I did and simply ignored you, then we have a very misleading situation. Simply because I am facing in your direction, you might think I see you, but that is not necessarily the case. When we scan an area to find someone, it is easy for our gaze to slide right past any number of people until we find that someone.

The opposite situation is also prone to misunderstanding: You see me and ignore me. It might be simply that one or the other of us is, or both are, thinking of something or someone which precludes recognizing all else. In any case, these simple examples show the importance of perception and misperception, or right view.

There is a school of Buddhism called consciousness-only, (also called representation-only), which makes this a central part of its teachings, albeit in a much more complicated, sophisticated form. One of the proponents of this school is our second patriarch, Vasubandhu. It goes something like this: If I am not conscious of you, or if you are not within my consciousness, you do not exist. The opposite situation also holds true. Those who do not see the truth of this are unenlightened. This is a much simplified version. The consequence of not knowing or understanding this is ignorance and suffering. It might be easier to swallow if you think, “To exist or not to exist are conditions of being relevant to me as determined by whether or not I am aware, or conscious, of whatever I am thinking of. Simply put, when I am not thinking of you, you do not exist. For me. When you are not thinking of me, I do not exist. For you. Another way to put it is, to exist is to be in mutual relation to someone and be aware of it. Of course, if we are talking about inanimate objects, like a rock, the only mutual relationship would be, for example, if a rock were to be thrown at you and you became aware of it, whether before or after it hit you.

What does this have to do with me or you? It is meaningful because not knowing or understanding that mutual relationship is not simply a couple of words describing a situation. These two words tell us what exists and what does not, and why.

Certainly you might say, “No, things and people exist whether or not we are in a mutual relationship.” However, we need to bring in the matter of time and existence then. According to Buddhist “philosophy,” although it is possible to talk of past, present and future, in real terms, there is only the present. And the present is very short, only as long as the moment it takes for a change to occur. Change is the only constant, as the Buddha taught 2500 years ago. Everything changes, even those things like mountains, and in every moment.

We cannot always easily perceive change, depending on the material, among other things. We sometimes think, or act as though, we do not change, especially the way we think or perceive ourselves. I wonder if you could stand to live in a world in which you do not change. Few of us, I believe, could bear to live in such a world, although if that were the only world we knew, who knows? Then again, I cannot conceive of such a world, so it’s a good thing that this world does not allow for a choice of changing or not changing, because it is not likely that we would be able to think through what that truly and really means.

In any case, I am very glad change is all we have, even though that means sooner or later we must die, as long as I do not die in pain. That’s rather selfish of me: it would be best if none of us died in pain. No joke. Nor do I want to cause anyone else pain. At any time. I know I have caused other people pain, almost always without intention, usually with words. I hope I have not caused any reader pain. If I have, I want to apologize. Please accept my apologies. I am truly sorry.

There is also this argument for “special cases” of change: What if there were situations in which only some things change while others do not? Let’s go all the way: how about we get to choose what does and does not change? You might remember the story I told about having three wishes? A man and wife are moping about all the things they don’t have, and wish a fairy would come and grant them three wishes and one does. Or maybe there was no fairy, but they were granted three wishes. They wound up getting the first two wishes, but the wishes were made in anger and they wound up having to wish that the wishes be cancelled and they be returned to their original situation. There are so many hazards involved, that we are very likely to shoot ourselves in the foot, so to speak.

Instead of fighting change, we might want to take advantage of it, which, in fact, is what most people do, although they might not put it in terms of change. It’s quite possible that successful people are those who are able to determine what things need to be changed for optimum results and are able to do them.

If you think you are not presently where you want to be, think about what changes are available to you, and see if the changes are possible. If so, plan it out and try to effect the changes, even if that is easier said than done. Shinran did it for us bonbu, making it possible for us ordinary beings to walk the otherwise impassable path to Suchness.

I hope that the changes you are able to effect this year are those you want, and they affect your life in ways you want them to. Make 2015 the year you want it to be.

Thank you very much for starting the New Year reading this. Stay well.

Gassho, Donkon Jaan Doami
Siddhartha Gotama led the life of a sheltered and pampered royal. He was a prince in line for his father’s crown. One day he ventured out beyond the castle walls, and for the first time he saw the realities of life: growing old, becoming sick and dying. For the first time, he realized that his royal lineage would not protect him from these events. During that same adventure outside that castle he met a monk. He was radiant and unconcerned with the future. He seemed to have found a way of living beyond the extremes of life and death.

This story is called The Four Gates. It is this last gate with the monk, that awakened a latent desire within Prince Siddhartha. It was a wish to seek a life of spiritual meaning rather than one of materialism. Soon after this encounter at age 29, Siddhartha cut his hair, removed his jewelry, donned the saffron robes of an ascetic and left the castle in search of a teacher.

After six years of continuous practice, Siddhartha realized enlightenment. He became known as the Buddha – someone who has awoken from the long, dark night of delusion and suffering. For the next 45 years, until his death, the Buddha taught others and the Sangha grew to perhaps 10,000.

This is a condensed biography of the Buddha. However, it only tells half the story. There are actually two enlightenment events in the Buddha’s life: the first one under the Bodhi tree at age 35 and the second one under the twin Sala trees at age 80. It seems these two events have been merged into one. I would like to discuss the Buddha’s enlightenment as occurring in two parts – with different qualities. This is called the Two Nirvana Theory.

We even celebrate two separate holidays for these two separate events. The first is called Bodhi Day, celebrated on December 8th, and the second called Nirvana Day, on February 15th. The names of these two holidays also add to the confusion. It might be more accurate to refer to them as Nirvana Day and Parinirvana Day. Nirvana Day celebrates the Buddha’s initial enlightenment and Parinirvana Day celebrates the Buddha’s complete enlightenment just prior to his death.

This two-fold structure of enlightenment can also be seen in the 18th vow of The Larger Sutra: “If, when I attain Buddhahood, sentient beings in the lands of the ten directions who sincerely and joyfully entrust themselves to me, desire to be born in my land, and call my Name, even ten times, should not be born there, may I not attain perfect Enlightenment."

This initial enlightenment is called enlightenment with remainder while complete enlightenment is called enlightenment without remainder. What is this remainder? It is the remainder of clinging. While the self still exists, clinging still exists – even for the Buddha. In other words, the triple fires of ignorance, greed and anger have been extinguished but the fuel still remains.

This fuel and fire is represented metaphorically as the demon Mara. Scholar Hajime Nakamura has found that “certain ancient texts … say that Gotama was assailed by the temptations of Mara after his [initial] enlightenment. … [but] later Buddhists, having deified Gotama, placed the subjugation of Mara before enlightenment to give his biography more drama.”

Mara’s continued activities can also be seen in a couplet from the Sanbutuge:

MU MYŌ YOKU NU
No Light Desire Anger
Ignorance, greed and anger,

世尊永無
SE SON YÔ MU
World Noble Last No
in the World-Honored One, does not last long.

In other words, while Mara’s attacks still continue, their effects no longer last. The fuel exists but the fire does not. Nakamura concurs stating that “people of that time regarded Mara’s temptations as continuing even after the [initial] enlightenment. … I consider this to be of great importance. The human being named Gotama did not, upon enlightenment, become a completely different kind of being, a perfect being impervious to harm. Even after becoming a Buddha he possessed weaknesses and could be pursued and tempted by Mara.”

We often hear that “nirvana” means blowing out the fire. This is actually a metaphor that has been interpreted too literally. In ancient India, it was understood that even after a fire has been blown out, a latent fire still exists due to the remaining fuel of the candle. Our fuel also still exists until we die. So the best we can do – in the here and now – is make a wish and blow out the candle – while still smoldering.

President's Message

Happy New Year! (Akemashite omedetou!) 2015 looks to be an active year shaped by events, conditions and actions of 2014. On a personal note, Karen and I have a new granddaughter (Karina) and this happy year-end event is already shaping 2015 for us!

But getting back to OCBC, here is my summary of significant events and resolutions of the year.

Significant events

- Hanamatsuri Festival cancelled (April) - We could not have Hanamatsuri due to the new social hall not being completed. But, we were fortunate that in May we held the “Surf and Turf” event, chaired by Lynn Black and her committee, which replaced a significant portion of the lost revenue.

- Social hall dedication (July 6) - Just in time for Obon the social hall was ready for use and functioned well. Thanks to the Phase 1 project team led by Sus Iwamase and Louie Yamanishi for completing the project and to Beth Fujishige who chaired the dedication event.

- Obon Festival (July 19-20) - This went well raising near record revenues. Thanks to chair Hiro Yamaguchi and “pinch hit” co-chair Kent Suzuki.

- With the EF Golf Tournament in August plus other building fundraisers earlier in the year the Sangha was “tired” of events by the time the “Sangha Appreciation luncheon” was to be planned. This event was cancelled so the OCBC “volunteers” could have a “breather” before the next big event.

- 2014 Conference of FBWA, SD BWA, SDDSTL, and BCA So. District (Oct. 10-12). As the main coordinating temple, OCBC had most of the chairpersons for this large event. With over 650 attending, the event turned out well. The following co-chairs -Rumi Nakatani, Amy Iwamasa, Rick Oishi, Rosanne Takahashi coordinated over 100 volunteers.

- TO THE MANY VOLUNTEERS - THANKS FOR MAKING THE EVENTS SUCCESSFUL!

In the background, the OCBC Board of Directors (BOD) oversees and approves the activities to keep OCBC running. The significant decisions are approved during the monthly BOD meetings. In 2014 over 30 motions were approved for various changes including special committees, significant expenses, new board directors and board officers. Some of the major motions made and passed in 2014 included:

- OCBC Owned House committee - OCBC owns 3 homes for minister housing and as a neighborhood buffer. For 2015 we only need one for minister housing. A special committee was formed to decide how to utilize the other two houses and decisions have been reached to lease the houses. The Devoy house was leased in December and plans are to lease the unoccupied Calico house in 2015.

- Major expenses approved included $23,000 for asphalt repair and coating to the entire parking lot. Also, $30,000 to concrete the area behind Rev. Harada’s residence and build 4 storage sheds to store materials and equipment that were stored in steel containers in the Calico rear yard (not allowed per city ordinance).

- OCBC programs and facility use - OCBC facilities, with only a few long-time exceptions, are used by OCBC organizations or affiliates. Programs run by outside organizations require approval by the BOD. This year the BOD approved Rising Stars organization to have short improvement seminars for high school/college students at OCBC in 2015. Also approved was for the Kizuna organization to operate their 2015 Nikkei Discovery Camp similar to the ones held in summer 2014. While open to all these programs are focused on Nikkei youth.

- 50th Anniversary Building project - Now that the social hall has been completed, the 2nd Phase, Hondo and Courtyard renovation, are being planned in earnest. With newer information and lessons learned from Phase1 the project team has determined the budget needed to be increased. The BOD approved increasing the Phase 2 budget from $3.5 million to $4 million.

Next month- some BOD organization changes for 2015.

"You Will Never Make it in College"

Client: "I'm very angry about something someone said to me."
Psychologist: "When did this happen?"
Client: "Forty years ago."

As strange and sad as this scenario seems, it is actually something that I come across fairly frequently in my clinical practice. I know that it is also true in my own life. In our lives, some old wounds never heal. Some memories stay fresh and never fade, like this one:

Me: "I'd like to take some pre-college courses."
High School Counselor: "You will never make it in college."

That happened to me over thirty years ago, and it's still alive in my mind. I'm sure it will be with me until the day I die. For me, that single comment has been a constant source of both anger and motivation. It is also a yardstick by which I measure my goals, my direction in life, and my capacity to let go, forgive and move on. It's never-ending, always a work in progress.

Some non-Buddhists have the view that Buddhists are somehow immune to anger. Funny how that is a view that sometimes makes me a little angry! The truth is, anger about past experiences comes and goes and is fairly unpredictable. At times it is sharp and cutting, at other times it can be amusing and ironic. With a mindful approach, observing this process with acceptance and non-judgment can provide valuable understanding about oneself and this crazy thing called human life.

I'd like to add that the Buddha was very aware of the power of words, and as a result included wholesome speech as one of the cornerstones of the Eightfold Path. By the way, sir, it took awhile, but I did make it in college. Thanks for your help.

Eshinnisama-Kakushinnisama Memorial Service and Luncheon – Highlights and Thank Yous
On Sunday, December 7th, approximately 90 BWA members and invited guests attended the annual memorial service and luncheon honoring Eshinnisama, the wife of Shiran Shonin, and their devoted daughter, Kakushinnisama. After listening to Reverend Yoshiko Miyaji’s warm and inspiring Dharma message, we walked over to the social hall. From the vibrant purple tablecloths, to the beautiful dendrobium centerpieces, to the lovely favors and decorated cakes, our hall provided the perfect setting for our annual party.

A special thank you to Nancy Suzuki and Joan Kanemaru for chairing this event and making the creative favors. Thank you, Tobans B and H, for assisting with bento packaging, room set-up and food clean-up. Special thanks to the Suzuki and extended family members for their generous orchid donation and hand-crafted sushi by Nancy’s son, Randall. No party would be complete without costumes and photos, and for that, we thank Jeanne Kumagai and Kent Suzuki. Lastly, thank you, Boy Scout Troop 578, for providing volunteers to help put away tables, chairs, and clean-up. It was a fun-filled afternoon enjoyed by all.

Mochitsuki - A special word of thanks from Jodi
A big thank you from BWA to everyone who helped out with mochitsuki, from finding all the equipment and getting it all in working order to putting everything away the next day! It was a very successful event, in that we sold out of everything. However, we are very sorry for those orders that were not correct and our most sincere apologies for any inconveniences it caused.

We used 900 lbs. of rice to make over 10,250 mochi and 119 kasane. Plus we were able to enjoy fresh mochi in the delicious ozoni.

Thank you to Alan Maruyama for coordinating and making breakfast. Thank you to Rev. Harada for making the miso soup, to Nancy Hara and Cheryl Higashi for donating the ingredients for the miso soup. Thank you to Janet Sakahara, Fran Onishi, and Cheryl Higashi for the sugar donations. Thank you to Cheryl Higashi for coordinating the lunch and donating the cost of the lunch. Thank you to Alison Yoshihara for getting all the ozoni ingredients. Thank you to Kent and Nancy Suzuki for donating the butter paper used to cover all the tables. Thank you to everyone who helped in the preparation of the food. OCBC Wish List

A resolution to be more generous and to give back may be a good one for us all, and as we begin a new year, perhaps it’s time to put into action such a possibility. Our various organizations ask for your consideration in granting an item from their wish list:

Project Kokoro Senior Crafts: Assorted yarns (3-4-ply, baby); poly stuff for stuffed animals, used yukata for craft projects, pillow forms, cotton fabrics (prints and solids), white and black thread, fabric scissors, cotton batting for quilting, large plastic containers with attached lids (questions to Dorothy Matsuoka or Rumi Nakatani)

E-Cookbook: Japanese platters, bowls, cups, dishes, utensils, and placemats for photographing dishes created from e-cookbook recipes (questions to Lynn Black)

Social Hall Kitchen: 2 comfort mats ($55 each), 3 tier carts ($88 each) (questions to Kathy Nishimoto)

All donated items may be dropped off at or sent to our office. Thank you in advance!

In Gassho, Janet Sakahara

DID YOU KNOW???

With 2014 in the past, the new year is an appropriate time to recognize some OCBC members who generously do what they do so well and do so without asking for any recognition. Our sangha is a community of innumerable unheardal "heroes" whose contributions help our church in so many different ways.

Item 1: DID YOU KNOW Neal Hayashida single-handedly donated his time, resources, and talents to reupholster the many chairs in the MPB lobby?! He quietly answered the request on our Wish List, and without fanfare took it upon himself to repair and replace the seats on those tattered and worn chairs. Thank you, Neal!

Item 2: DID YOU KNOW the ladies in the office, Nancy Hara, Cheryl Higashi, and Janet Uyeno, tirelessly work behind the scenes to make our church run smoothly? They have been seen mopping the social hall floors, cleaning up in the kitchen after various events, staying late hours to lock up the church buildings, etc., etc., etc. Much of what they do is not on their job description, but they unselfishly devote many extra hours to the church. Thank you, Nancy, Cheryl, and Janet!

Item 3: DID YOU KNOW Bobby Iwashita spends many hours looking for sales and personally purchasing and donating bags of rice and other suitable items for our numerous raffles and drawings?! When his garage can no longer house his finds, he quietly brings them to church for the next raffle event. Thank you, Bobby!

All our unsung heroes deserve a huge thank you! Please be sure to express your appreciation to these folks when you see them on campus.

And there are many others whose names you’ll see in future DYK articles. If you would like to bring to our attention other examples of generosity by church members, please send them to Janet Sakahara, c/o OCBCKorin@gmail.com.

Daion Taiko

Akemashite Omedetoo Gozaimasu! I hope everyone enjoyed their holiday break and is all rested up for more taiko. We’ll jump right back in with learning the remixed Ashura. Soon, we expect the Intermediates to start on this song as well. So Intermediates, make sure you’re at every practice (this is especially directed at certain individuals… you know who you are).

Thank you again to everyone for your support in 2014, we look forward to your continued support in 2015.

Dharma Wheel Club

Happy New Year! We want to thank everyone for their support last year and we look forward to more fun in 2015. Dharma Wheel Club’s first get together of the year will be making placemats for Project Kokoro’s luncheon. We always look forward to this, because the kids get a chance to be creative and make beautiful placemats. In addition, future activities will also include a fundraiser, Ohigan luncheon, Hanamatsuri, and recycling duty. Please contact a Dharma Wheel coordinator, if you have any questions.

Sangha Teens

Last meeting, we divided into four groups (team A, B, C, and D). Team A and C went against each other in a game of Buddhist bingo while B and D did a cookie decorating competition. After those activities were finished, all the groups switched and so A and C did decorating while B and D did bingo. Once everyone concluded each activity, the cookies were judged by some of the parents and the winning cookies were Hannah Robinson’s.

On December 21, Sangha Teens members had the chance to help at Mochitsuki. Their job was to help move mochi to the cooling area. Overall, we all enjoyed working to make delicious mochi and the parent help was greatly appreciated.

Some upcoming events of ours include laser tag on January 10, 2015 and the Pasadena event on February 1, 2015. The next Sangha Teens meeting will be held on January 4!

On December 6, our members attended Southern District Jam Session. In addition to icebreakers, we had a scavenger hunt in Little Tokyo. It was really cool because we got to see parts of Little Tokyo that we never noticed before, and be in a group with delegates from all different churches within SD.

We helped out at Mochitsuki on December 21. Even though sometimes it got a bit messy, everyone enjoyed making some yummy mochi!

On December 28, we will be participating in the OCO Mochitsuki Poundoff. It’s at Tanaka Farms, and we just so happen to be the defending champions! It’s a great opportunity to learn more about mochi-making, and eat lots of food!

We would like to thank everyone for supporting us in our See’s Candy fundraiser! Although it has come to an end, we still have our Gratitude Grams! Do you have someone to show your appreciation to? You can purchase a Gratitude Gram on Sundays after service. Bring a smile to someone that you’re thankful for: a real act of Dana! We have many designs and treats to choose from!

On January 10, we will be babysitting at the OCBC New Years Luncheon. We can also look forward to preparing for the Southern District Volleyball tournament. We will hold a clinic for a review or introduction to the game. The best thing about SD tournaments is that it doesn’t matter what your skill level is; you will still have a good time!

As we start a new year together, we look forward to even more memories and great times that we will have. Also, we’re thankful for these opportunities to have fun events and give back to OCBC in all the ways we can. We hope everyone has a happy and healthy 2015!

Daisy Girl Scout Troop 2041

Daisy Troop 2041 had a great December! We had a holiday party where we did a book exchange among the girls, saw our Cadette Big Sisters for a gift exchange, and sang Christmas carols to the Junior and Cadette troops. We also attended a holiday stage show of Peter Pan's Christmas in Neverland at the Ebel Theatre in Santa Ana. The girls and their families dressed up in their holiday dresses and had hot cocoa with Mrs. Claus and then enjoyed the show afterwards. The highlight was the kids getting autographs from the performers after the show. It was a nice time for the kids to share in the joy of Christmas as a troop. We've had a fun filled 2014 and look forward to the adventures in store for 2015, among which include our starting our Flower Garden Journey, annual Girl's Day celebration, Hanamatsuri, and Obon.

Brownie Girl Scout Troop 916

Brownie Troop 916 has had a busy couple of months! We completed our annual nut sales while working toward our goal to take a trip to Sea World in 2015. Thank you to everyone who supported our troop! We had a meeting about Philanthropy hosted by the Senior Girl Scouts and we donated toys to the Anaheim Service Unit “Stuff a Bus” holiday toy drive. We learned about time management, planning, and healthy snacks from the Cadettes. We are looking forward to an exciting 2015 full of more fun activities and opportunities for us to grow. Thank you for your support!

Junior Girl Scout Troop 855

In December, the Junior Troop celebrated the holidays with a pizza party, a fun craft and also a community service project. For the craft, the girls made cute snowmen out of socks stuffed with rice and decorated them with colorful yarn, buttons, and fabric. The girls used their amazing creativity to make these adorable, handmade decorations for the holidays.

To give back to the community, the girls also made “Kallyn Krates,” small boxes filled with activities for hospitalized children. The boxes will benefit children who are admitted to Miller Children's Hospital in Long Beach or Kaiser Medical Center in Anaheim. They decorated plastic shoeboxes and filled them with small games, activity books, pencils, erasers and many other fun things that children could use while in the hospital or when waiting for doctor's appointments. They also added a hand-written note of well wishes and put it inside each box. We thank our Junior Girl Scout, Kallyn, for being our inspiration and for helping us decide what to put in our “Kallyn Krates!”

In January, we will continue with our “Journey” and also start preparing for Junior Jam! The Junior Troop sends their best wishes to all for the new year!

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 675

In December, the Cadettes did some fun things! Unfortunately, there was only one meeting. First we traded presents with the Daisies. They loved our handmade cards! Afterward, the Cadettes continued our heart pillow project for the CHOC Hospital. We finished, after much stuffing and sewing! And finally, to celebrate the holiday, we had a small party! There were lots of pizza, snacks, and of course, fun!! It was really yummy!

The Cadettes also volunteered for the annual mochitsuki in the social hall. We worked in shifts, some working at the tables, others were dusting them off, and the rest ran to bring the mochi to the tables. If you asked, you were able to make, cut, and eat your own mochi! The Cadettes also got occasional water and snack breaks. Great things happened in December, and I’m sure that almost everyone enjoyed themselves! And thank you to Mrs. Watanabe. Congratulations on your promotion! Happy holidays!

Senior Ambassador Troop 881

This past month has been busy for troop 881. We met for a delicious Korean BBQ dinner and some boba. We spent a lot of time planning activities for the Brownie’s Philanthropy badge. Each patrol was in charge of an activity. Patrol 4 facilitated the meeting; Patrol 1 led an activity to teach the brownies the difference between wants and needs. Patrol 2 played a game to teach the difference between perishable and nonperishable foods, and Patrol 3 compared summer and winter clothing. Girls that have little sisters gave their sis a holiday gift at the meeting. We also had our annual holiday party. This year we ate breakfast at Mimi’s Cafe. Girls brought slightly used sweatshirts and jackets to donate. We also had a gift exchange, so each girl could go home with a festive gift! This month also involved helping at OCBC’s mochitsuki. It was a lot of fun, and we finished early. December was a fun filled month and a great way to end the year!
Just before the holiday break, we had our annual Pack Holiday Party to close out 2014. Dinner was served along with entertainment, with skits and songs performed by the Webelos, Bear, Wolf, and Tiger dens. 14 boys received their Bobcat awards, including 6 of the boys in our Wolf den.

The Wolf Den doubled in size this year...we now have 13 scouts in our den: Gavin, Jack, Jayden, Jeffrey, Joaquin, Kyle O., Kyle S., Lucas, Nicholas, Ryan L., Ryan S., Tesshin, and Travis. Our parents have all made this a successful start of the year; and several parents have taken leadership roles in the den and pack: Cindie Nishimoto-Nishida (Pack Secretary), Joy Aoyama (Pack Historian), Ron Nakahira (Assistant Den Leader), Erik Zurko (Assistant Den Leader), and Russell Hirotsu (Den Leader).

The Wolf Den would like to thank everyone who supported our popcorn fundraiser. Our den led the pack with popcorn sales and recently the boys were able to enjoy a pizza party. Thanks again!

At our last den meeting, the Tigers and Wolves worked on their requirement covering religion. Reverend Turner gave the boys a very fun and educational presentation in the hondo, discussing Buddhism and many of the items in the naijin along with their meaning. Thanks, Reverend Turner, for taking the time to teach the boys about our religion.

Our next event is the Ho-onko luncheon which we are hosting on Sunday, January 11th. Hope to see everyone there!

It’s been a busy year so far and we’re looking forward to a great 2015.

50th Anniversary Project Report

As 2014 comes to a close, I reflect back and see what a truly eventful year OCBC's 50th Anniversary Project has had. After five years of effort, OCBC was finally able to open the doors to our new social hall. With its impressive and large multi-purpose room with upgraded AV equipment, spacious kitchen, new upstairs office, work, and leisure areas, and the digital media center/BEC classroom, this facility will serve our Sangha for many years to come. OCBC could not have accomplished this without the leadership of Sus Iwamasa and Louie Yamanishi who led the dedicated Phase 1 team during the year-long construction period. Of course, OCBC is also indebted to the Sangha, its hard-working organizations and its many friends whose generosity allowed OCBC to build this social hall loan-free. The donor acknowledgement Bodhi tree, unveiled at the social hall dedication ceremony this past year, shows just a fraction of the total number of donors who contributed to make this happen, but the tree continues to grow as new donors are added and repeat donors add to their previous donations.

2014 also saw OCBC, immediately after Phase 1 completion, continue into the Project's Phase 2, the Hondo renovation, Naijin restoration, new courtyard and new MPB floor phase. A new team, led by Howard Nakagiri, was formed and that team is working hard on project planning to continue the momentum started by Phase 1. Having received up-to-date contractor and consultant fees, as well as current construction costs, the team recently has had to increase the Phase 2 budget from the preliminary planning figure of $3.5M to a more realistic $4.0M. This increase was approved by the Board of Directors at its December meeting.

Fundraising continued in earnest throughout 2014. And the close of the year also means wrapping up and recording all the end-of-year donations, now for Phase 2. As I look at the donations arriving, I continue to be amazed and awe-struck as I report to you and the Board of the generosity of the OCBC Sangha. While we still have new donors to whom OCBC is grateful, most donations are from previous donors. These are not just a second donation, but a third, fourth and fifth donation or a third and fourth pledge! OCBC organizations are no exceptions, as their total donations now approach a million dollars! OCBC and the entire 50th Anniversary Project team is humbled and grateful for the continued generous support of our Sangha and friends.

As OCBC looks forward to 2015, there will be challenges with Phase 2 planning and fundraising. But the end is almost in sight, and with the Sangha's continued support, OCBC hopes that the difficult decision next winter can be made: proceed with construction in 2016.

OCBC gratefully acknowledges the following new and repeat donations received between December 1, 2014 and December 27, 2014.

2014 OCBC Sustaining Members

Below is a list of the 2014 OCBC Sustaining Members as of December 21, 2014. A sustaining member is one who pays OCBC sustaining membership dues. Our temple’s main sources of income each year are: sustaining membership dues, festival income, and donations. Each account for approximately 1/3 of the temple operating expenses and each one is vital for the financial health of our temple. A portion of our dues is also sent to the Buddhist Churches of America to help fund their operations.

To those who are sustaining members, on behalf of the BCA and OCBC, thank you for your generous Dana. For those who are not sustaining members, please consider becoming one. A sustaining membership form is in each issue of the Korin.

We strive to be as accurate as possible but we do make mistakes. If you paid 2014 dues (in full and partially) and you cannot find your name on the list or if your name is misspelled, please contact the OCBC office. We also try to group the names of couples next to each other including those couples who have different last names.
