This is a wonderful specialist skill to expand your reflexology practice and offer an attractive treatment to your clients and to build up your client base and reputation. The unique benefit of Facial Reflexology is that not only does it aim to help clients improve their health and wellbeing, it also can help them to look better, younger and have a healthy glow on the outside.

The face provides a beautiful and precise tool to read what is going on within the body's internal organs, central nervous system and neuro-biological system. You will learn about how to use special therapeutic techniques, Facial Reflexology tool, massage movements and specific reflex points and learn an effective Facial Reflexology treatment. This distinct specialist area of reflexology will offer you a sought-after skill and qualification to expand and complement your clinical practice.

Bergman Method Facial Reflexology is built on a combination of Native American techniques and Asian body maps that chart the reflex points on the face, combined with Zone Theory making it easier to grasp for Reflexologists. The face's proximity to the brain is key to the effectiveness of manipulating facial reflex points which directly connect to the body's neuro-pathways. Facial reflexology can be a wonderful therapy to help identify reflexes out of balance and to help your clients improve their health and well-being.

As an added benefit to the treatment session, the face will feel and look smoother and more toned as you increase the circulation and help to release muscle tension. Some clients call it their 'mini facelift' by helping to improve skin tone and promote lymphatic drainage.

You will be provided with ground-breakingly clear and simple Face Reflexology charts and sequence notes, along with a specific Facial Reflexology Consultation form. We will be working on Facial Reflexology points to help relieve a number of stress-related ailments to help your clients receive the benefits from Facial Reflexology. This course will allow you to add new skills to your repertoire and treat your clients with a totally new approach.

On completing this course you will be awarded with a Facial Reflexology Certificate.
This course is a pre-requisite for the Zone Face Lift CPD course.
