Movet is a company that literally originated in a garage. Today, the Movet brand is synonymous with outstanding competence in the field of conveyor belt technology. Studio Alexander Fehre was commissioned to design a new and more representative office space with an adjoining warehouse. The solution is a clever combination of different areas that accommodates the diverse range of requirements in a limited space while retaining a spacious feel. The result is the 'Movet Workshop', which forms the epicentre of the space and functions as conference room, office kitchen and showroom in one. Contained behind an airy metal mesh façade, customers and visitors are immediately integrated into daily business. The new open-plan office structure communicates enthusiasm, transparency and a marked team spirit.
