

SLEEPINGGIANT

CONSULTING

Working with architects, designers, AEC professionals and their organisations to accelerate personal, professional and organisational performance.

EXECUTIVE COACHING

Executive coaching is rapid, effective, business focused and aimed at mid to senior levels of management; team leaders, associates, directors and partners. Coaching to agreed targets is conducted on a 1:1 (90min every 3-4 weeks, 6 sessions), 1:1 intensive (1 day) or small group basis (120min every 3-4 weeks, 6 sessions).

Senior Leaders | Focus, Strategy, Change

As a director, partner, or a senior architect you may be confident taking on new tasks, and may feel that an objective, independent point of view would help achieve a new level of performance. By developing a higher level of self-awareness, you will acquire and sharpen skills needed to lead, invoke change and articulate your business vision.

Women in Management | Support, Stretch, Voice

Woman in senior management want to feel confident articulating ideas and views. As a role model and leader, coaching equips you with strategies to overcome obstacles, fostering a strong sense of self-belief. Support during critical transition points helps you to navigate change, such as moving from mid- to senior-level management. Self-awareness, conscious behaviour & stretching your comfort zone are competencies for your success.

Maternity or Long-Learn Returner | Confidence, Resilience, Balance

Returning from maternity leave, you'd like to hit the ground running and increase your visibility in the office. Increasing your confidence and heightening resilience levels will positively impact your return to professional life. Relationship management is key, along with maintaining balance and flexibility.

Associates and senior designers | structure, mobility, growth

You have specific personal or business objectives to meet, along with a desire for forward mobility. Whether focusing on career advancement or balancing external commitments, you'll want a sound structure for achieving your goals and a coaching partnership that will help you manage the transition.

Team leaders | delegation, appreciation, enquiry

As an architect responsible for leading or managing a team, coaching can develop your strengths and help you explore areas that would benefit from improvement or change. Discussions may be around personal communication, delegation and conflict scenarios.
