

PRIVACY POLICY

Child & Family Resources, Inc. (CFR) is committed to maintaining your trust and protecting your privacy. This privacy policy is intended to protect and secure the personally identifiable information (any information by which you can be identified) that you provide to us. We maintain the privacy of your information using security technologies and adhere to policies that prevent unauthorized use of your personal information.

Information We Collect

The only information CFR collects through this web site is that which visitors voluntarily provide, such as name, address, email address, contact preferences and, in the case of donations, credit card number and expiration date. We also collect information in the aggregate, including but not limited to how many people have visited our site, which sections of the site were visited and what search terms were used. This information does not; however, identify any individual or track an individual's use of the internet.

How the Information is Used

CFR uses the information to enhance your user experience, respond efficiently to your requests, and provide you with better online and mail service. We may use your information to complete a transaction, issue you an income tax receipt for a donation. Credit card numbers are used only for donation or payment processing and are not retained for any other purposes. In addition, we may periodically send you e-mail newsletters and event information. If you choose to supply your postal address, you may receive mailings from us as well.

Security

CFR is committed to ensuring the security of your personal information. To prevent unauthorized access, maintain data accuracy, and ensure the proper use of information, we have established and implemented appropriate physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure the information we collect online.

Protecting your privacy

As part of our commitment to ensuring the privacy of subscribers, CFR does not rent, sell or exchange names, email addresses or any other personally identifiable information.

Use of cookies

Cookies are pieces of information that are stored on your computer to help identify you while you visit our website. A cookie can't read data off your hard drive or read cookie files created by other sites. Cookies do not damage your system. We use session cookies to make visiting and using our website easier - so that you don't have to continually re-enter form information, and so that we can tailor your visit to your expressed preferences. These session cookies are erased when you close your web browser.

Many Web sites place cookies on your hard drive. You can choose whether to accept cookies by changing the settings of your browser. Your browser can refuse all cookies, or show you when a cookie is being sent. If you choose not to accept these cookies, your experience at our site and other Web sites may be diminished and some features may not work as intended.

Links to other sites

As a resource to our online visitors, CFR may provide links to other web sites. While we make every attempt to provide links to high quality web sites, we are not responsible for the privacy policy or the content contained on those sites.
